SHADES OF THE PAST—Pony, Nelly K. draws buckboard with costumed passengers through uptown streets to promote old-fashioned atmosphere of the Ulster County Fair which got underway this morning at Forsyth Park. The two-day event features a variety of booths and events recalling past glories of the county. In keeping with the theme, awards will be presented to the couple attending the fair in the most attractive old costumes and to the booth showing the most imaginative decoration. Occupants of the buckboard are Orville Palen, Mrs. Harvey Carlton Locke, contest chairman; Kathleen Winters who will present the awards, and her younger sister Valerie. Of special interest to children attending the fair will be pony rides, sailboat, potato sack and three legged races, plus refreshments. (Freeman photo by Wagen-fahr).

See $90,000 Gain in New City Rating

Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan today said he had received official notice that the city's new equalization rate is to be 37 per cent, two points higher than that fixed in 1965. By this increase, he noted, the city will gain some $90,000 in budgeting for general purposes. Sought Higher Rate Early this year the mayor sought a higher rate from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment than the 35 fixed in 1965. He then said he would like a rate of 41, but would settle for 39 if he could get it that high. The rate was increased from 35 to 37 during the administration of former Mayor John J. Schwenk. The state board in 1960 had dropped the rate from 42 to 35, and it subsequently went down to 32. Earlier this year a rate of 36 had been announced. Set As Ratio Equalization rates are the ratio between the assessed value of local property and its actual or full value, as determined by the state. If a locality's rate is 50, its assessed valuation represents one half of its full valuation of real property. When market values rise in a community, but assessments do not, the rates drop. Lower rates usually mean an increased share of school taxes, and a lesser portion of state aid.

O'Connor Buoyed By RFK Pledge; Touring Upstate

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank D. O'Connor takes his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor Upstate today, buoyed by a neutrality pledge from Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. O'Connor scheduled visits to Buffalo, Schenectady, Oswego and Dunkirk in quest of the nomination that he predicted Tuesday he would win on the first ballot at the convention Sept. 7 in Buffalo. On returning to New York Tuesday after a Washington meeting with Kennedy at which the senator said he would make no endorsement, O'Connor declared: "I am certain that many dele-

Banks Urged to Curb Credit Expansion As Interest Rates Reach Six Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reacting to a wave of increases in prime lending rates, the Johnson administration has urged banks to curb credit expansion by saying "no" to more prospective borrowers. This could apply to the little fellow who wants a loan for a car, a house or other purposes as well as a big business firm seeking a major loan. In rapid-fire order Tuesday, commercial banks in several cities increased their prime lending rates for the fourth time in a year, this time to 6 per cent. Other banks across the country were expected to follow suit today. There was no solid indication President Johnson would try to roll back the boost or talk the bankers out of it. The prime lending rate — that charged the largest and most creditworthy customers like big corporations — forms the basis for the commercial interest rate structure. Thus, when a bank's best customer is charged 6 per cent, other borrowers may be charged 6.5 per cent, 7 per cent or more. Experts said pressure will be placed on installment and other small loans, but supplies of money for personal or consumer loans will tend to be available, although at higher rates. Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler issued the plea for restraint after the First National City Bank of New York initiated the increase by raising one-fourth of 1 per cent its lowest interest rate for business loans of 90 days or more. A bank spokesman said the move was designed "to moderate the continuing extraordinary loan demand." When Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago quickly followed suit, Chairman William H. Moore said, "We think in view of the pressure on interest rates this increase is amply justified." Fowler contended, "There is a better way to limit credit than by simply raising its price." "When demands exceed a bank's resources, credit expansion can and should be restrained by bankers saying 'no' to borrowers on criteria other than that of who is willing to pay the highest rate," he said. Since last December, the secretary noted, the prime rate charged by commercial banks had been increased three times from 4.5 per cent to 5.75 per cent. Interest rates in other sectors of the economy also have risen substantially. "I hope that today's increase in the prime rate does not become the occasion for lenders to raise rates generally," Fowler said. The new increase leaves an unusually large gap between the prime rate and the Federal Reserve's discount rate which was 4 per cent. (Continued on Page 39, Col. 3)

Budget Voted In Ellenville
Ellenville voters turned out in large numbers on Tuesday and on a fourth vote approved an austerity budget of $1,882,614 for the Ellenville Central School District for 1966-67. The basic budget of $2,246,068 of July 12 was reduced by $89,545 through deletions and $274,000 by offering residents a chance to vote on 12 options. 1,220 Votes Cast A total of 1,220 votes were cast in yesterday's special election and voters approved 12 supplemental items in addition to the austerity budget. Sol Sashin, business manager of the school system, said it took a committee named by Reuben A. Benson, board president, two hours and 15 minutes to count the paper ballots. The items approved, the amount of each and the vote follows: Items Approved For the operation of the cafeteria $11,000 — 859 Yes, 321 No. For interscholastic events, $10,000 — 778 Yes, 402 No. For rental of four additional classrooms, hiring of five additional teachers, and purchase of necessary equipment and supplies, $62,000 — 694 Yes, 481 No. For transportation of pupils living closer to the school than the state-mandated mileage, $62,000 — 678 Yes, 497 No. For extra-curricular student activities, $7,500 — 744 Yes, 433 No. For an adult education program, $5,000 — 731 Yes, 443 No. For the purchase of textbooks (Continued on Page 39, Col. 4)

Expected Here Friday Evening
President Johnson will make two whirlwind Upstate visits on Friday, giving more credence to the reported tour of the Ulster County area on the same day. Although the White House has not confirmed the visit to Buffalo, police in that city and Secret Service agents are reportedly quietly going ahead with arrangements. Expect More Information This morning, a spokesman at Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's office in Poughkeepsie told The Freeman that as far as he knew the White House is implementing arrangements for the Ulster visit. He added that further information was forthcoming. The possible visit of the President on Friday in Ulster County would include the dedication of the new Ellenville Hospital and a visit with Viet Nam veterans at Castle Point in Beacon, the congressman's office spokesman added. Flurry of Activity Meanwhile, the Ellenville area was reported to be a beehive of activity amid plans to make the village's reception to the President one to remember. Extra committees, taking in almost one of every two residents of the village, were being named to handle arrangements for additional bands, choruses, buses, banners and placards. A call has even gone out to area camp children to come up with ideas for banners to welcome the chief executive. A Poughkeepsie spokesman for Rep. Resnick, pointed particularly to Kingston residents who plan to travel to Ellenville, stressed that there will be no parking allowed south of the new Ellenville hospital for at least two or three hours prior to the arrival of the President's motorcade. An earlier report this morning suggested that the President's party, possibly including his wife and Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, would stay over night on Friday at Stewart Air Force Base, near Newburgh. Following Congressman Resnick's press conference at the Nevele Country Club in Ellenville Tuesday morning it was indicated that the Presidential party would stay at the Nevele. Syracuse on Tour An Associated Press story out of Buffalo this morning said that the President also was expected to visit Syracuse on Friday. Buffalo source said that Johnson will arrive at the Greater Buffalo Airport at about 1:20 p. m. and leave for Syracuse two hours and 10 minutes later. Reports in the Ellenville area on Tuesday indicated that the President would be arriving there around 7 or 7:30 Friday night. Peace Group to Protest The Ulster County Committee for Peace in Viet Nam has stated that it will stage a protest demonstration during Johnson's scheduled Ellenville stop Friday. The committee is supporting the candidacy of Eric Lindbloom, independent peace candidate for Congress in the 28th District. Rep. Richard McCarthy of Buffalo, who faces fall re-election, said he invited Johnson to the area to observe problems of air and water pollution in the area. Faces Challenge Rep. James M. Hanley of Syracuse is another Democrat who faces a stiff challenge in November. The President reportedly will tour parts of Lake Erie aboard a Coast Guard vessel. The Coast Guard base off Fuhrman Blvd., however, offered no comment on the possibility. Area sources indicated the President would be accompanied by Mrs. Johnson and possibly Interior Secretary Udall. In Washington, Rep. Frank Horton of Rochester, said he was told by the White House that Johnson would visit Buffalo and Syracuse. Horton said the President would not stop at Rochester as was reported in that city. Buffalo area democrats, besides McCarthy of the 39th Congressional district, who are fall candidates are Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, seeking re-election from the 41st District, and William Levitt, who is challenging Rep. Henry P. Smith III. Smith is seeking re-election from the 40th district on the GOP ticket. Tuesday evening 157 Erie County Democrats were called to a special meeting behind closed doors in anticipation of the whirlwind visit by Johnson.

Study Housing Totals, Over Budget by 10 PC

Low bids received Tuesday by the Kingston Housing Authority for construction of downtown's 135-unit Rondout Gardens housing development exceeds the total sum available by some 10 per cent, George E. Yerry Jr., KHA chairman noted after bids were opened. Based on low bids submitted for general construction, plumbing, heating and electric work, the total would be $2,502,805. Estimated cost of the project in the Broadway East urban renewal area is $2,342,000. High bids for all work total $2,898,640. Yerry said "the figures are now being reviewed by the housing authority, architect and the Public Housing Administration, and as soon as they have been analyzed a further statement will be issued." A low bid of $1,697,000 for general construction was submitted by the Robie Construction Co. of Elmsford, Westchester County. Other bids were by the I. & O. Slutzky Co., Hunter, at $1,798,000, and the Sotarelli Construction Co., Albany, which bid $1,774,000. Low for the plumbing work was the C. B. Strain Co., Poughkeepsie, at $388,000. Other bids were by I. Novinson Co., Bronx, (Continued on Page 39, Col. 4)

Crash Kills 26 Villagers 1,000 Marines Head For Red Stronghold

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP—Shells fired by a Viet Cong suicide squad killed one Vietnamese and wounded six tonight at a U. S. motor pool a mile from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport. A U. S. spokesman said he knew of no American casualties. Material damage was officially reported to be light from the bombardment, which followed up a Red ambush that killed 14 Vietnamese militiamen and wounded 12 only five miles south of Saigon. SAIGON (AP)—A U. S. Marine jet fighter-bomber heavily laden with bombs and fuel crashed into a Vietnamese village shortly after takeoff from Da Nang airport today. At least 26 villagers were killed. The pilot, identified as 1st Lt. Walter J. Doherty, 22, Gold Hill, Ore., miraculously escaped serious injury. His parachute failed to open after he ejected, but his fall was broken by a tree. Several Homes Levelled The crashing plane leveled a number of small Vietnamese homes. Others were set afire. On the battleground, a U. S. Marine amphibious assault force of more than 1,000 men, which landed Tuesday on the shore of the South China Sea 100 miles east of Saigon, moved inland into dense jungle and swamplands believed to be hiding a Viet Cong division. The landing was unopposed. By noon today, advance elements of the Marine force had reached coastal Highway No. 1 without meeting the enemy. The Leathernecks came ashore in amphibious tracked vehicles and helicopters from seven U. S. Navy ships, including the assault carrier USS Jima, from which the helicopters were launched. The landing was preceded by a saturation bombardment of the shore by cruisers, destroyers and rocket ships. The Marines, who called their operation Deckhouse 3, were landed as a blocking force for Operation Toledo, a combined U.S.-Vietnamese search and destroy mission. (Continued on Page 39, Col. 8)

Declare Ulster, Orange Farmland Disaster Counties

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller has declared farmlands in Ulster and Orange Counties are disaster areas and has asked the Federal Government to release idle land for grazing in the two counties, according to The Associated Press. Rockefeller told Orville Freeman, U. S. agriculture commissioner in a telegram Tuesday: "Near-drought conditions in parts of New York State have resulted in extreme hardships to many farmers in this state." He said his request was based on an investigation of the farmlands, on the western side of the lower Hudson River, by federal and state agriculture experts. Their report, he said, showed that "available hay and grazing lands are being depleted." (Continued on Page 39, Col. 6)

UAW Asks Monday Word On Earlier Pact Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers have demanded that the automakers give them an answer by next Monday on the union's request for reopening current contracts to write in higher wages for skilled tradesmen. The three-year contracts, negotiated in 1964, do not expire for more than a year, and Chairman Henry Ford II of Ford Motor Co. is on record as saying "reopening at this time would be 'inadvisable.'" The demand comes, however, just as the automakers are beginning to roll out 1967 models. The union says its only weapon now is "the power of persuasion." But a strong demand always raises the specter of work stoppages, and all the manufacturers like to begin a new model year with a rush. Skilled tradesmen within the UAW contend they are underpaid when compared with other workers, particularly within the building trades. They point to a Detroit straight-time scale of $4.63 hourly for carpenters and $5.20 for electricians. In the Big Three auto plants they claim tool and die makers average $3.87, and in job shops of the Detroit Tooling Association, $4.25. Other skilled trades are millwrights and machinists. UAW spokesmen said Tuesday the union would ask a "substantial increase" in event of reopening. The figure of 25 per cent, or about $1 an hour, has been tossed about by some within the skilled ranks. Only Ford has replied publicly to contract reopening, a subject which UAW President Walter P. Reuther broached some weeks ago. In a secret meeting Monday, however, General Motors, Chrysler and Ford, plus the Detroit Tooling Association, promised to meet a week later with UAW spokesmen. (Continued on Page 39, Col. 3)

Only 3 in State
Cook Is Inducted
By Trial Lawyers

Kingston Attorney Andrew J. Cook Jr., who was elected to Fellowship last June by the American College of Trial Lawyers, was one of three attorneys from New York State who were inducted into membership at the annual banquet of the American College of Trial Lawyers, held at the Queen Elizabeth, Montreal, Canada, Aug. 7. The session was held in conjunction with the American Bar Association meeting.

The American College of Trial Lawyers last June 17, announced the election to Fellowship of Cook, who is a member of the firm of Cook, Tucker and Dwyer.

National Association
The College is a national association, the aim of which is to improve the standards of trial practice, the administration of justice and the ethics of the trial branch of the profession. Membership, which is a post of honor, is by invitation of the Board of Regents. Induction into membership was scheduled at that time for August 7, the date of the annual banquet in Montreal.

Only 38 lawyers in the United States were elected to Fellowship, of that number there were only three in New York State, Andrew J. Cook Jr., of Kingston, Fowler Hamilton and Samuel L. Roseman of New York. Kingston Attorney N. LeVan Haver was elected to Fellowship in the American College of Trial Lawyers several years ago and is the only other Kingston attorney having a Fellowship. Membership is restricted to one per cent of the practicing attorneys from any one state, and membership includes numerous very prominent attorneys among them being former Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York. The object of the association is to establish and maintain as an integrated group, lawyers skilled and experienced in the trial of cases and thereby to improve and enhance the standards of trial practice, the administration of justice and the ethics of the trial branch of the profession. To accomplish these aims, the purposes of this association shall be, among others: (a) to bring together members of the profession thus qualified and who, by reason of their character, personality and ability, will contribute to the accomplishments and good fellowship of the College.

When a lawyer is selected from any community, his qualifications are weighed and carefully compared with all other trial lawyers practicing in the same community. Those men most qualified are the first to be selected in order to insure that at any time it can be properly said the College is composed of the best men in any city and in the state in which it has membership.

Cook is the son of the late County Judge Andrew J. Cook and Mary E. Cook. He attended St. Joseph's parochial school; Kingston High School, being graduated with the class of 1934. On completion of high school he entered Holy Cross College in 1936, entered Albany Law School from which he was graduated in 1939 with his degree of LL.B. He was admitted to practice law in 1940 before the Appellate Division, Third Department, and practices law in all of the courts of New York State, specializing in the trial of civil actions.

Cook is a past president of the Ulster County Bar Association; a member of the New York State and American Bar Associations; has served as attorney for the Kingston School District, Consolidated, and is active in trial work in the county of Ulster and all of the courts of the state.

Julia Cook Cloonan, his sister, is also an attorney having been associated with her father in practice of the law prior to her marriage to Edmund Cloonan, superintendent of the Kingston Water Department.

Cook attends St. Peter's Church; is a member of Kingston Council No. 275, K. of C.; is a member of the Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, and a member of the Twaalfskill Country Club. He is married to Joan Dormer of England and they have six children.

ULSTER COUNTY FAIR

The two-day Ulster County Fair, which opened at Forsyth Park this morning with a record number of exhibitors and a record attendance for the opening morning session, promises to be another successful fair. Many new features have been added to the old-time favorites, which emphasize the farm and farm products. The fair will continue tonight until 10 and reopen Thursday morning at 10 and close at 5 p. m.

The 4-H Division has received some 500 entries which take in over 2,500 exhibits. The offerings to be judged include canning and preservation of fruits and vegetables, jams, jellies and marmalades. Baked foods to be judged are numerous and following the judging the cakes, bread, rolls, cookies and pastry will be sold. In the Home Improvement area will be seen displays of clothing articles. All these demonstrate the constructive work that has been accomplished by the boys and girls of the county.

Other noteworthy events will include the cattle display, livestock parade and a horse show. There also will be a wide selection of gift items made by patients of the occupational diversional therapy program of the Ulster County TB Hospital and the Kingston Infirmary.

The Ulster County Fair has been a happy occasion for a yearly gathering of people of the area, where they exchange pleasantries and enjoy fun and entertainment. A better understanding of the mutual interest of farm and city people is a very important part of a county fair. This unification is a basic ingredient in the American way of life.

The Ulster County Fair is well worth attending.

PRODUCT IMPROVEMENT

You have to break eggs to make an omelet, as the French say. But the millions of eggs that are accidentally cracked before they reach the market annually cost farmers and retailers about 4.6 million dollars.

That's an expensive omelet that benefits nobody and the industry has long been looking for a way to prevent it. Now researchers at the University of California have reportedly found that when bicarbonate of soda is added to hens' food, the egg shells they produce are about 12 per cent tougher.

What bicarb does for the digestion of the birds is not revealed, but it promises to brighten the disposition of poultrymen.

CHIC AND SAFE

The current emphasis on automobile safety is not only shaking up the vehicle designers; it's giving fashion designers exciting visions of the drape of things to come.

Tomorrow's motorist may wear clothing that is flame-retardant, abrasion-resistant and even air-conditioned, with built-in safety belts yet. This is a prediction.

Some of the committee's observations: Flame-retardant clothing, already being manufactured for the Defense Department, could easily be made without affecting a garment's appearance or wearing qualities.

Abrasion-resistant fabric could prevent certain minor injuries and tend to make others less serious. Such clothing would be especially useful for motorcycle riders.

"Modern, well-insulated cars, with the windows closed, can impair a driver's ability to hear horns, sirens or other warning devices," notes the committee, viewing with alarm the increase in cars with air-conditioning as well as heating.

Air-conditioned, or climate-controlled, clothing thus would be a safety factor because it would enable the wearer to operate a vehicle in perfect comfort with the windows open in all kinds of weather.

Seat belts are very valuable items, but they do make the pockets of conventional trousers virtually inaccessible. This can be a safety hazard, as when a driver is approaching a toll booth and fumbling for change in his pocket at the same time.

The solution may be the relocation of pockets, perhaps on the trouser leg below the knee. Or it may call for additional pockets in the shirt or coat.

The ultimate in convenience, however,

GUN LAWS AND THE CONSTITUTION

My son-in-law, who is a crack shot and a very vocal member of the National Rifle Association, dislikes Senator Tom Dodd of Connecticut. His animus against the Senator has solely to do with the anti-gun law which Dodd first introduced back in 1963 in an effort to curtail the importation of firearms and the practice of selling them by mail order across state borders. Being only human, my son-in-law will probably cheer if Dodd's current troubles over his methods of expense-accounting and his friendship with public relation man Julius Klein serve to discredit him as the author of the anti-gun bill.

I have vainly argued with my son-in-law that Tom Dodd has, despite his present embroilments, been an excellent Senator. If it had not been for Dodd's watchful eye, our rush to accommodate the Moscow Communists without getting any quid pro quos might long ago have reached headlong proportions. It will be a crying shame if Dodd's legislative effectiveness is destroyed by tax difficulties deriving from careless treatment of the money he has raised by the ancient device of the testimonial dinner.

Even so, I think my son-in-law has a case when he argues against the Dodd anti-gun bill. Since I am actually an anti-gun man myself, let me explain that I may retain some honor with both the Senator and my son-in-law.

Actually, the substantive reason for an anti-gun law is overwhelming. Our crime rate has gone up by forty-six per cent since 1961. J. Edgar Hoover, the head of the FBI, reports that there was a murder every hour in 1965, and a rape every twenty-three minutes. Guns have figured in about half of our recent murders. Attorney General Katzenbach, who would like to see the Dodd bill become law, points out that a majority of the 64,000 armed robberies in 1964 were carried out by bandits with guns.

Altogether, there are supposedly more than fifty million guns in the private possession of Americans, which would check out at one gun for every family of four people.

Now, it is obvious that only a few of the fifty million guns have been employed in criminal activities. But the ease with which crackpots and psychopaths can pick up guns by ordering through the mail is troublesome. A method of regulating the sale of guns so that police would know who was getting what kind of lethal weapon might conceivably help prevent the sort of witless assault that cut short the life of the late President John F. Kennedy.

When all this is said, however, one is faced with the words of the second article in the Bill of Rights, the one which says, quite explicitly, that the citizen's right to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed. I happen to believe that there is a direct relationship between our present attitude toward law and the recent increase in criminal activities. The feeling has quite obviously gone abroad that law is something that only squares need obey. The Supreme Court has encouraged this with some of its fantastic interpretations. And more than a few of our clergymen have been guilty of encouraging the practice of ignoring laws that they deem to be "unjust."

So what will happen if Congress, in the blithe defiance of the words of the Second Amendment to the Constitution, passed a law that incontestably infringes the right of the citizen to bear arms? Won't such a law tend to work against itself by compounding the feeling that the Constitution is just a scrap of paper? If Tom Dodd wants to cut off the flow of foreign-made guns into this country, couldn't he do it constitutionally by getting Congress to impose a prohibitive tariff on such imports?

Liberals are currently objecting to the Dirksen school prayer amendment bill on the ground that it won't do to monkey with the first article in the Bill of Rights. According to this liberal line of argument, the first article in the Bill of Rights should be sacrosanct. Yet many of these same liberals are for anti-gun legislation that would go against the words of the second article in the Bill of Rights. This verbal schizophrenia doesn't make sense. But it does make sense to argue that if one is going to alter the Bill of Rights, it should be done by a legally valid process of Constitutional amendment. Otherwise the very idea of law is discredited. And with the idea of law held in contempt, we shall have more crime rather than less. Copyright, 1966, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Specific Aids Help Relieve Discomforts of Emphysema
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

As the prevalence of emphysema has increased, so have the efforts of the medical profession to help those who have this disease. The treatment is not a single procedure but rather a program that includes drugs, postural drainage, oxygen and breathing exercises.

Although pure oxygen in moderation is necessary in the treatment of some persons with a severe form of the disease, it should not be used routinely. Persons with mild emphysema have half the usual atmospheric pressure (a simulated altitude of 18,000 feet).

Special breathing exercises are usually prescribed to aid in forcing the trapped air out of the lungs. The victim must lie on his back and push out his abdomen by forcing his diaphragm downward during deep inhalation (1½ seconds followed by a pause of one-half second), then pulling his abdomen in during slow expiration (3 seconds). A metronome set for a beat of one-half second is the best way to control the timing.

Placing a sandbag weighing 15 to 30 pounds on the abdomen during this exercise increases the benefit. Two half-hour sessions a day are recommended.

None of the treatments outlined will cure emphysema but they will make the victim's life much more endurable. For prevention, support a movement for cleaner air in your city, don't start smoking or, if you smoke, give it up and see that every respiratory infection is treated promptly and not allowed to become chronic.

Q—Where I live there is still some question as to whether you should use boric acid to rinse babies' diapers or as an eyewash. Also, should one take baking soda for an acid stomach or mineral oil for constipation?

A—Styles change and when the reasons are good, the changes are for the better. The reason boric acid, a very weak antiseptic at best, is no longer recommended for rinsing babies' diapers is that this substance is a poison and can be absorbed through the skin. As an eyewash it is far inferior to a one-quarter per cent solution of zinc sulfate.

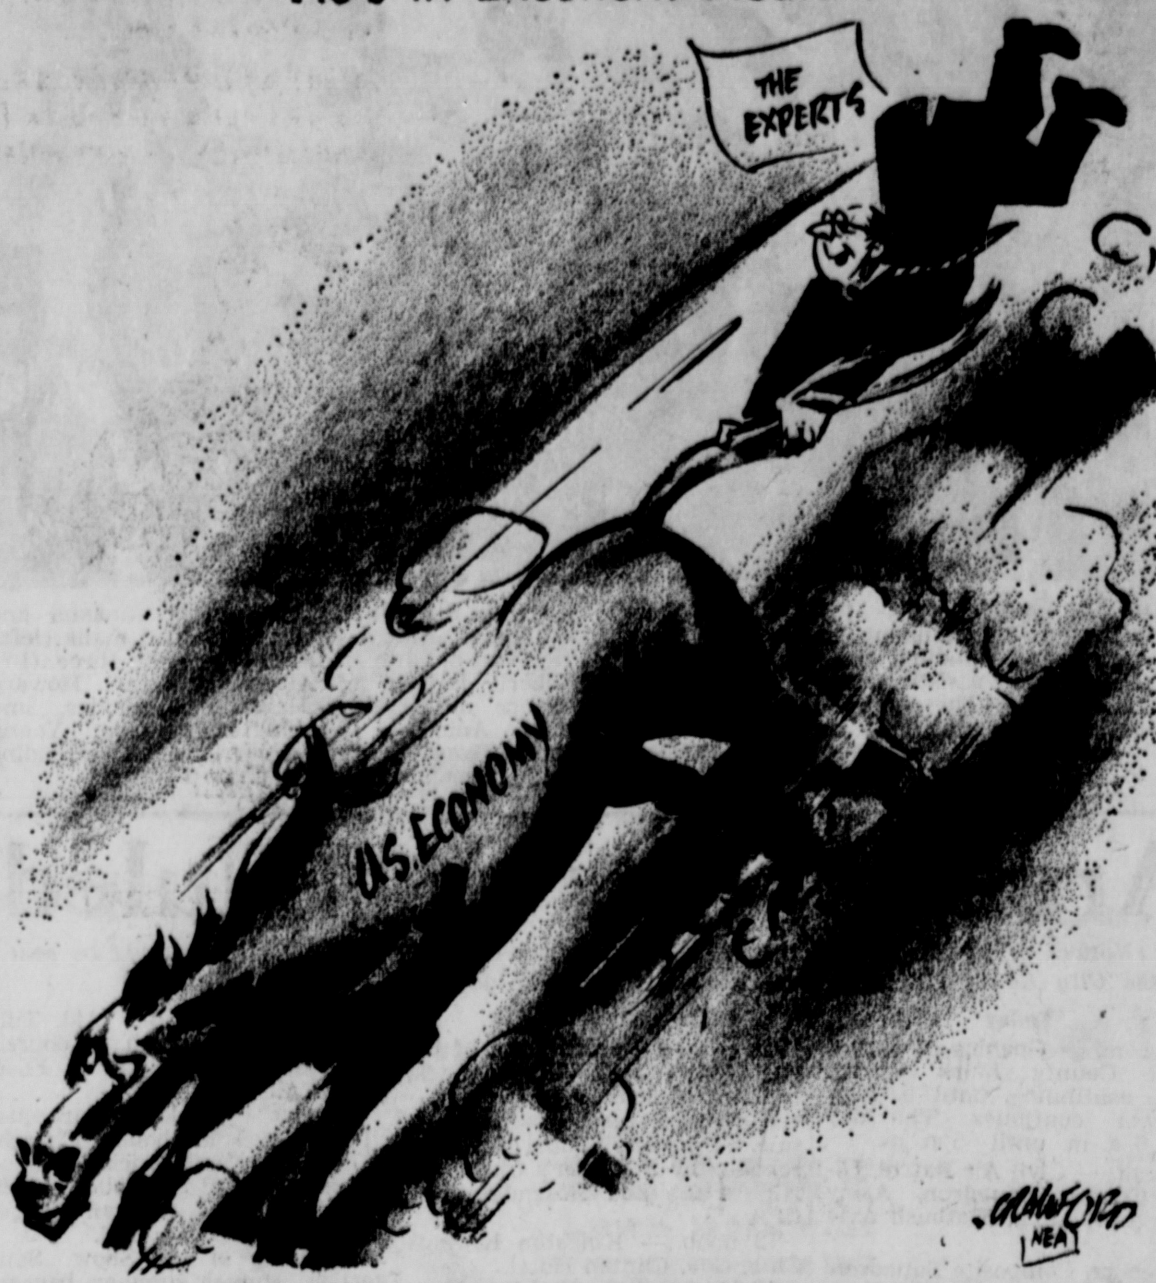

Soda bicarbonate will give quick relief from water brash but has the disadvantage that it stimulates the stomach to produce more acid. Aluminum hydroxide tablets are easier to take and more effective. Mineral oil interferes with digestion. Seepage is hard to control if you take too much.

may be to make the safety belt part of a man's suit or even milady's foundation garment. The wearer would hook himself to the automobile seat rather than strap himself in.

Since head injuries can be especially serious, the committee suggests the development of conventional hats which would incorporate safety features—something like a cross between a fedora and a football helmet.

To sum up, the fashion designers seem well on the way toward reconciling safety with styling. Can Detroit do less?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Privately, Ronald Reagan, California's GOP governorship nominee, fears overconfidence. But the summer polls suggest he is drawing ever closer to the seat now held by his Democratic rival, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

To anyone who has talked first hand with Reagan, as this reporter recently did, it is obvious the prospect of occupying the governor's chair in the nation's most populous state is sobering.

In his free-wheeling days as an engaging and unabashed conservative, Reagan sounded the standard call for heavy budget cutting and a general hold-down on government expenditures. Last spring, he urged Brown to slice $245 million of his latest budget.

The evident approach of the reality of office has changed the reality of office has changed the song. Reagan understands thoroughly that California's budget, like many another (including the federal), is larded with built-in escalators which lift expenditures for education, welfare and similar purposes as the population head count rises.

There is no realistic prospect of repealing these escalators, so California's budget seems bound to climb steadily toward the $5 billion mark from its present yearly level around $4.6 billion. The cheerful Reagan knows this, too.

He is cautiously preparing himself for the shift to reality, if it comes.

Dropped into his public utterances from time to time are charges that Brown, through resort to budget gimmickry, is postponing financial burdens which may therefore fall with great weight upon Californians after next January.

This tack by Reagan is seen by California observers as more than an advance effort to justify presiding over a rising budget. It sets the stage for a "Governor Reagan" to call for significant tax increases in 1967.

Some California onlookers think that no matter who wins in November, taxes there cannot long be held at present levels. So, again, Reagan plainly is trying to position himself to toss the blame on Brown and the Democrats for any bigger spending or higher taxes he might have to endorse if he gets elected.

Reagan is not quite reconciled to the idea that he cannot do anything at all to shave the budget. He talks a lot about the "fat" in it. Conceivably, as governor he might make a considerable show of pairing some items, aware realistically that a hard-pressed state legislature might well like them again.

While Reagan grapples with reality, his still ardent right-wing followers go bowling along in their cherished "cut the budget—cut taxes—repeal the income tax" vein.

How they would respond to Reagan in 1967 if he became the "spender and tax-increaser" is a matter of no little interest in gauging his national political future.

One hard-bitten Republican professional in the West thinks the right-wingers will eagerly accept any justifications a "Governor Reagan" might offer—and promptly advance him for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

A sizeable body of past evidence supports this judgment. Arch-conservatives tend to cling hard to the things their favorites said first—before necessary adjustment aimed at luring a broader vote. What their idols say first, they argue, is what they really believe.

Reagan said first that budgets could be slashed and taxes trimmed. The chances seem strong that his devotees will stick with him even if reality drives him the other way. They can always contend that, once he surmounts the burdens dumped on him by "Pat Brown's gimmickry," an elected Reagan would be able in time to usher in the promised land where the population goes up but spending goes down.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

WEST END, GRAND BAHAMA.—The swimming pool is 450 feet long, and we sat beside it in moonlight at a luau. It isn't a luau at all; it is a luxurious cold buffet of salads, dressings, meats of all descriptions, and the platters run on both sides of a 150-foot table. We talked hotels because my host, Ernest Blank, is managing director of the Grand Bahama.

The ladies discussed children and gowns and laughed at their husbands. Blank is young and tall and wears owl glasses. He thinks that the difference between one hotel and another is not the age or size of the building, or even the rates. It's the personal service.

He means personal. He was born in Switzerland and served his early apprenticeship at the Baur au Lac in Zurich. "You could work for two years before they would permit you to crack a lobster claw. All you did was follow a waiter and hand things to him like a nurse does for a surgeon. For months, they made me practice filleting a fish in the kitchen. To cut, to open, to lift bones out was an art."

More than that, the Baur-au-Lac insisted on understanding every guest and his whims. Did Madam have the service of a certain maid when she was a guest three years ago? It is printed on a card. Advise the maid at once. Does the lady prefer a certain beauty shop? Phone them that she is in town. Was she distressed by red flowers, and prefers white? It's on the card.

The reception desk, accustomed to famous guests, was shocked one afternoon when Chief Justice Warren arrived, and an American tourist approached and asked for his autograph. Still, the judge gave it. Gina Lollobrigida swept in one afternoon and a group of Italian maids addressed her as a goddess. She strode into the elevator without a word.

Former King Farouk of Egypt got to the Baur-au-Lac with a retinue of servants. He appealed the clerks by starting a picnic in the lobby. Then he rented an entire floor and tried to sneak local girls to his floor by the back entrance, the side entrance, and the stairwell. He is the only king ever evicted.

Ernest Blank cut his thick slice of beef expertly, and said he isn't yet satisfied with the Grand Bahama. He uses a lot of native help, and many of these do not understand what person-

Machinists' Action Could Start New National Pattern

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It certainly pays to strike. The National Machinists Union brushed aside the findings of a presidential board, voted down a contract once agreed to by the union negotiators, and challenged Congress, which then became reluctant and afraid to pass remedial legislation.

The machinists came out better than they had accepted any of the offers or contracts submitted to them during the long strike period. The presidential board gave its approval to a formula that would have cost the airlines approximately $67 million on a three-year schedule. Then the labor-union representatives approved a settlement amounting to about $74 million on a three-year basis, but this was rejected by the members.

Now the union has obtained a settlement estimated to total $90 million for three years, or close to $100 million over a period of three-and-a-half years. It will be seen that the escalation during the strike went from around $67 million to approximately $100 million. This is only $14 million less than the original demands made by the labor side.

The union is inclined to play down the amount of the benefits to be received, and estimates the original demand was only about $89 million. But even this is far more than the labor leaders would have gotten if they had settled on the proposal made by the government or if the members had accepted the contract for $74 million voted down by a referendum on July 31.

Which ever way it is viewed, the union won more by ignoring the government's proposals and the pressure behind it than would have been the case if the union had yielded to the administration's appeals.

This will doubtless furnish a significant pattern to major unions which start big strikes and then are faced with government pressure to settle quickly "in the public interest."

The back-to-work bill, which passed the Senate and is pending in the House, applied only to the airline strike. It now could become superfluous unless the House decides to enact some legislation anyway that would regulate future strikes and prescribe some methods of settlement. It is doubtful whether in an election year members of Congress will take any such risk. They probably will be content to let well enough alone.

As for the many American citizens who lost money by reason of the strike—the owners and employees of small businesses, hotels, motels, and resorts dependent on tourists who travel by plane—they will not get their money back, and could encounter similar losses again. The delays in mail service were also costly to business.

The spectacle of a Congress bowing to the political pressure of labor unions, whose members put up the money designed to elect a majority in both houses, is not one of which the United States can be proud. Nor is it likely that anything will be done soon to eliminate the improper methods by which money is used, in effect, to buy seats in Congress.

The fact remains that the country has just witnessed a successful strike in which the machinists union won a big victory and obtained a large financial reward, even though it was indifferent to the public interest and carried on a strike that cost the companies involved a lot of money.

As for the union members, some of their losses in wages will be made up by the forthcoming raises in pay. Many of the workers took other jobs during the strike. Also, benefits were supplied from a union fund. The companies, of course, cannot recoup their losses except out of profits, which now will be curtailed substantially unless the government permits the airlines to increase their fares.

The president of the union said that the contract is "the best ever won in one set of negotiations by any union." Presumably it does pay a big union to strike—at least until the vast majority of the citizens wake up some day and insist on electing representatives to Congress who will really protect the public interest. Named to Head TV Muscular Dystrophy Drive

Charles and Lillian Brown of Brown's Hotel at Loch Sheldrake, have been selected by the national headquarters of the Muscular Dystrophy Association to serve as Catskill area chairman for the organization's forthcoming Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. The 24-hour-long program, scheduled for September 4 and 5, will be seen and heard on Channel 5 at 9 p. m. on Sept. 4.

In anticipation of the telethon program, which annually raises funds for research and care of youngsters stricken with Muscular Dystrophy, the Browns will be installing eight special telephones. The phones will be used to receive calls from Catskill area residents who wish to pledge money to the M. D. Association. In addition to the eight local-line phones, there will be a direct line hook-up with the Telethon program in New York City. The Browns will be relaying the names of people and business firms in the Catskill area who pledge funds to the drive program. The areas covered by the Catskill branch of the Muscular Dystrophy Association for the telethon include all of Sullivan County and the Town of Wawarsing in Ulster County.

Comedian, actor, writer producer and former Brown's Hotel busboy, Jerry Lewis will be in the spotlight as he hosts the 24 hour fund raiser for the association. Jerry has annually served as master of ceremonies on this charitable program and also as National chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Many celebrities of stage, screen and television are expected to participate in the 24 hour program along with Lewis.

"We feel," said co-chairman Brown, "that the people of our area will play an active, understanding and extremely charitable role in the forthcoming Muscular Dystrophy Telethon."

Pair Given Approval For Rt. 14 Takeoff

SCITUATE, R.I. (AP) — Calvin Dence Jr., 17, of Camden, N.Y., and Van Chapman, 22, of Williamstown, N.Y., flew a two-seat, single-engine aircraft off an unusual landing strip—Route 14—Tuesday enroute home. The pair escaped injury Monday when they made a forced landing on the highway because of fog and adverse weather.

State Police and Albert Tavani, the state's aeronautics director, gave Dence and Chapman permission to make the highway takeoff in the craft, which was registered to Rodrick Foote of Rome, N.Y. Police said Dence made a perfect landing Monday in the near-zero visibility. Scores of onlookers watched the takeoff Tuesday. The pair planned to fly home after a stop at nearby Conventry Airport.

More to Face Questioning At Hearing on Viet Policy

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — More members of antiwar groups that brand the United States as an aggressor in Viet Nam face questioning today by the House Committee on Un-American Activities after a tumultuous opening day punctuated by repeated crowd outbursts and 17 arrests.

Minutes before the committee plunged into its hearings on bills aimed at Americans who help the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, a three-judge federal court lifted an order by U.S. Dist. Judge Howard F. Corcoran forbidding the session. But it directed a further hearing today on a constitutional challenge to the committee's authority.

Well Guarded

Scores of police and federal marshals patrolled the sprawling caucus room in the old House Office Building, and surrounding marble corridors. Although congressional staff aides got most of the 300 seats, bursts of laughter and applause echoed from the audience throughout the day.

Nine persons were dragged or carried out by police after leaping to their feet and shouting challenges to the committee. Another eight were arrested as several hundred supporters of the antiwar witnesses milled and jostled in corridors hoping to get seats.

The committee devoted its morning session and part of the afternoon to laying the groundwork for an allegation that such antiwar groups as the May 2nd Movement are controlled by Communist organizations such as the Progressive Labor Movement and the Progressive Labor party.

Small Minority

Phillip A. Luce, an author and former member of the Progressive Labor Movement, testified that the antiwar groups represented only a small minority of American youth. Since leaving the Progressive Labor Movement, he said he has been "trying to tell other young people about the pitfalls of communism."

The Progressive Labor Movement, he said, is a pro-Peking group expelled from the U.S. Communist party for "leftist deviation."

It was something of a switch for Luce who three years ago was ejected from a committee hearing dealing with a trip to Cuba by a group called Students for Travel to Cuba. His testimony Tuesday prompted Jeffery Gordon, a Progressive Labor party leader from New York, to leap to his feet and shout:

"Fink Testimony"

"Let's stop this fink testimony! U.S. get out of Viet Nam." Gordon was hustled out of the chamber and taken to a police station.

All 17 who were arrested were charged with disorderly conduct.

Along with many of the others, Gordon was back for the afternoon session at which he was called to testify. His testimony brought frequent bursts of laughter from the audience and some of the committee members. He insulted the committee, quoted the Bill of Rights, denounced the war in Viet Nam and extolled the May 2nd Movement.

He said collecting blood and medical supplies for the Viet Cong "is in the best humanitarian tradition" and several times called President Johnson a murderer.

"The blood is on Johnson's hands," he shouted. "My interest is that no more Americans die in Viet Nam. Your interest and Johnson's interest, is to send more Americans there." He called the committee "a front for Johnson," charged facing Chairman Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., was "arrogant to the American people with these questions" and, when handed a May 2nd Movement publication by counsel Alfred M. Nittle, said, "This is a progressive document. You are a reactionary."

When he was asked whether he received money as an organizer for the Progressive Labor party, the 23-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., college student replied: "That's a fink question. I don't answer fink questions about money or names."

Start Chant

During the afternoon session, the hundreds gathered in the corridors suddenly formed in two columns and marched out of the building, singing and chanting "Hey! Hey! LBJ. How many kids did you kill today?"

Marching the mile from Capitol Hill to the White House, about 200 of them paraded on a sidewalk.

One woman carried a sign that read:

"Pat Nugent, honeymoons while our boys die for Johnson and (South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao) Ky." Nugent is Johnson's son-in-law.

Caution Sounded By Fish on Drive To 'Save Resnick'

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress, today warned the voters of the 28th District "to be on the lookout for a 'save Joe Resnick campaign' on the part of the Johnson-Humphrey administration."

"The present administration is desperately trying to salvage all the freshmen Democrats who were swept in on Lyndon Johnson's coattails," Fish said. "The administration," Fish continued, "isn't taking any chances on losing one of its 'rubber stamp' Congressmen in what looks like a Republican year. The votes of these congressmen have been used by the administration to steamroll its inflationary 'great society' spending spree through Congress. Resnick, whose absenteeism far exceeds the average congressman's has dutifully been on hand to curry the favor of the White House and the administration isn't about to forget this between now and November," Fish declared.

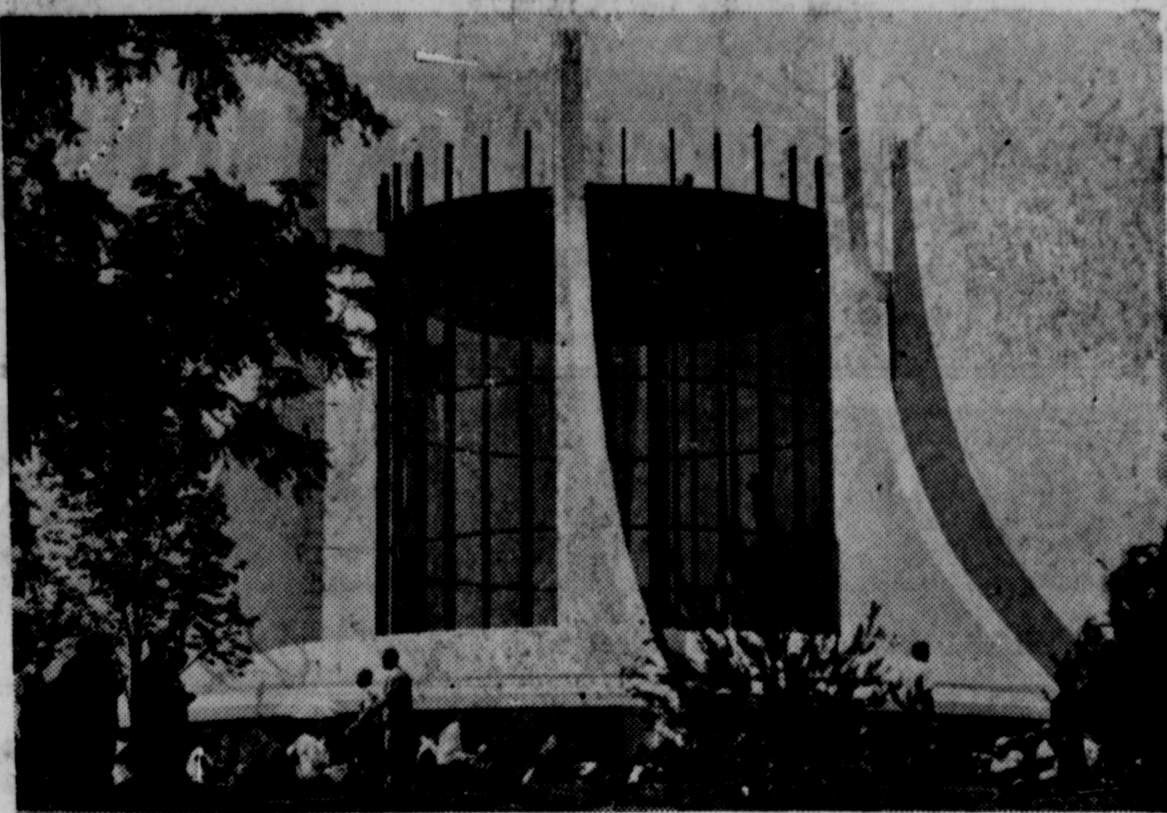

The Republican candidate also noted "Resnick will have to stand on his own record this year and administration efforts to camouflage the issue that Resnick obediently and consistently voted for inflationary great society measures will have little effect on the housewife who is swamped by soaring food prices."

Cornell Prof Named Aide to SEC Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — David L. Ratner, associate professor of law at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., is the new executive assistant to the chairman of the federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Chairman Manuel F. Cohen named Ratner Tuesday to succeed Leonard M. Leiman, who plans to return to his private New York City law practice.

Ratner is a specialist in taxation, antitrust and corporation and securities laws. Before joining the Cornell faculty in February, 1964, Ratner was associated for eight years with a New York City law firm engaged in corporate and securities work.

THE APES HAVE IT MADE at Swope Park Zoo in Kansas City, Mo. They've moved into this ultramodern, climate-controlled Great Ape House just in time to beat the sweltering heat of midsummer. The $340,000, structure of glass, stone and concrete, already up for national architectural awards, houses four species of apes separated from spectators only by a moat. The central glass tower is to be filled with palms and tropical birds.

Injuries Are Fatal

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The 60-year-old deputy sheriff of Genesee County died Tuesday of injuries suffered when he fell off the back of a pick-up truck.

Officials at St. Mary's Hospital, said Lloyd Chittenden, of Corfu, was working for the county when the accident happened. Chittenden lived at 952 Lake Rd.

Head Start Group To Take Part in Nature Program

Both this week and next the staff of the Mid Hudson-Catskills Museum will introduce to Head-Start groups a program in natural history under the leadership of the museum's newly appointed director of education, Dr. Phyllis Busch.

The funds for this program have been provided by a federal grant, under Title III of the Elementary-Secondary Act of 1965 which established PINE—Projects in Imaginative Nature Education. Dr. Busch will bring to these pro-schoolers materials and programs generally not available to regular school programs.

It is hoped that this initial venture by the museum will not only serve to introduce the children to natural history but teachers to Project PINE which will focus this fall on programs in conservation education in elementary schools.

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether it concerns unit volume of goods produced, dollar total of sales, number of jobs, trend of prices, profits, debts and interest rates — most of the news these days is of things going higher.

Many of the official figures announced this week set records. And this in an economy that has been straining for, and achieving, new highs for many months.

Gets Most Headlines

What isn't going up sometimes gets the most headlines. Stock prices are shaky. Housing starts are off. Money available for lending, or borrowing, is in tight supply. Car production is at a seasonal low after a setback in late spring.

But most of the economy still is booming. Some of the glow is due to rising prices. Inflation makes things look more prosperous than they really are. But there are some solid figures, too.

Industrial production, which measures unit output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities, has hit a new high, with still more of a climb in prospect. Price inflation may have been the incentive for some of the busy outpouring of goods and materials, but is not reflected in the figures on unit output itself.

Dollar volume of sales in many fields bears the imprint of inflation. But merchants report unit sales also are up as a prospering public spends more — even while it grumbles at higher prices.

Defense spending increases are beginning to show up in industrial output figures. But business equipment production also has increased.

Steel output has climbed sharply this month, as the factory shutdowns for vacations dwindle and customers plot fall production schedules.

Total employment hit a record 76.4 million in July. Some of the gain could be traced to increased orders for defense needs, but much of it was for producing the goods and services that a prosperous public is expected to demand in the weeks and months just ahead.

For many, rising wage scales are offsetting climbing prices. For many others, inflated living costs spell only problems.

They mold themselves to the contours of your body... never sag... give perfect support from head to toe. The water glass test pictured at right shows the difference in action between the tied-together-coils of other mattresses and the separate coils in a Beautyrest.

Tampering Can Upset Economy Humphrey Says

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today the economy is a delicate mechanism that can be affected seriously by untimely tampering.

Answering Senate criticism of President Johnson's anti-inflation policies, Humphrey described the economy as strong and healthy and said, "I do not think this is the time to apply any drastic measure to it."

Is Under Study
But he added in an interview: "You can be sure that it is a subject under intense study within the administration."

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the assistant Democratic leader, and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., called in the Senate Tuesday for presidential action to bring down soaring interest rates.

Humphrey said he has long favored low interest rates. But he said he does not believe restrictive measures on the economy are in order now.

Seen As Delicate
"The economy is a delicate mechanism," he said. "One control may affect adversely another section of the economy. It can have a very serious effect if controls are applied to it, especially if they are untimely."

"It's like having your doctor keep a check on your health. You take the precautions he prescribes but you don't go around popping pills in your mouth because self-medication can be dangerous."

In another interview, Long urged presidential cooperation with Congress to cut interest rates. He talked in terms of linking this with credit controls, suspension of the investment tax credit and possibly standby price-wage controls.

Long, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, complained that Johnson is leaning too heavily on high interest rates and a tight money policy in an effort to curb inflation.

Gore predicted in a separate interview that "this interest rate increase may become the biggest issue" in this fall's congressional elections.

Gore said interest rates are the highest since the Harding administration 45 years ago.

Memorialize Death

LONDON (AP) — A special church service was held today in memory of Bridget Driscoll, Britain's first reported victim of the automobile.

Exactly 70 years ago — on August 17, 1896 — Mrs. Driscoll was knocked down and killed by a car traveling at four miles an hour. Her death created a public outcry.

Tax on Air Travel Shelved by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has dropped its proposal for a one percentage point increase in the tax on air passenger tickets, correspondence with Congress disclosed today.

In his State of the Union message in January, President Johnson proposed various tax increases as "user charges" — designed to place some of the cost of special government services, such as those for air travel, on those benefiting from them.

3 Are Killed In 2-Car Crash Near Syracuse

CICERO, N.Y. (AP) — Three persons were injured fatally Tuesday night in a two-car collision on rain swept route 31 near this community north of Syracuse.

Miss Janice E. Barrows, 19, of North Syracuse, died today in St. Joseph's Hospital of injuries suffered in the crash.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Premo, 24, and Lawrence E. King, 30, both of Clay were dead on arrival at a hospital.

Mrs. June J. Barrows, the mother of the dead girl, was injured.

She was taken to Crouse-Ingalls Hospital in Syracuse where her condition was reported fair.

State Police said Mrs. Premo was a passenger in the car driven by King.

Troopers said the King car apparently went out of control and crossed in front of the Barrows vehicle.

Mrs. Premo lived at 300 Helen St.

King resided at 8870 Seventh North St.

The Barrows' address is 110 Ferguson Ave.

Fire Destroys Unit of Delaware State Hospital

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Fire wrecked one building of the sprawling Delaware State Hospital complex Tuesday night. Thick smoke felled more than 75 firemen, but 268 mental patients were evacuated safely.

Dr. John B.E. Smith, hospital superintendent, said the gutted unit had been slated for demolition. He described it as "a burning inferno" at the height of the two-hour blaze.

State Fire Marshal William R. Fawcett estimated damage at $250,000. The hospital, located four miles south of Wilmington, has a total mental patient population of 1,500.

Quits Ellenville Education Board, Scores Members

"Ellenville's school system now sits on the brink of misfortune for both students and the professional personnel," said Jack Baglietier, member of the Board of Education, who submitted his resignation Tuesday night accompanied by statements critical of the school board.

The letter of resignation was addressed to Reuben A. Benson, board president, and copies were sent to Dr. Walter Crewson, associate commissioner of education, and Henry Hopper, district superintendent of New Paltz.

Baglietier said he offered his resignation with regret, "but in fairness to my family and myself I can no longer suffer the agonizing hours of heartbreak and frustration which in the end led only to more of the same with the progress of the school system at a standstill."

His letter follows: "With the close of the 1965-66 school year and rather than get involved in any further activity as a member of the Board of Education of the Ellenville School District, I am submitting my resignation."

"I am withdrawing from literally active combat of service for the school district. However, the desire I once had to serve and the responsibility I once felt to accomplish so much for the children of the district, cannot allow me to just drop a hot potato without some explanation to those many persons who had confidence to elect me to this board, as well as to those who will question my wisdom of this decision."

"A year ago I began my first term as a member of the board, and without exception I look back on the last 12 months as most exasperating, frustrating and generally the most difficult period of life I ever experienced."

Desire to Serve
"A desire to serve prompted my choice for this position. A desire to serve the children of the district. A desire to give them the best educational program possible. A desire to bring to the district the most practical and logical school organization. And, I have failed. For this I am sorry."

"But the failure was inevitable though I did not realize at the outset this failure was spelled out as clearly as the petty partisan clashes, the increasing trying and long meetings all of which this board has promoted during my short tenure."

"The inevitable cliques of our society are quite evident on our school board. Less evident, however, in their earnest desire to enhance the basic educational system in Ellenville for, in their zeal to engage in petty clashes they have sentenced the students of the school district to an inferior educational program. As is always the case, in search of power of struggle, there are no winners, and unfortunate losers are your children and mine."

"Glaring in its absence on this school board is the observance of a standard code of ethics, which has on countless occasions publicly been flaunted by certain board members. These are the damaging efforts which are dragging this school system into the lowest depths of despair in its history."

"These are the damaging efforts which are promoting a dangerous atmosphere for teaching our children."

"When board members will proudly admit their disrespect for this code of ethics, being disrespectful for 'one of the same' and 'accepting all board decisions' then there is little left for those of us who abide by majority rule."

"The code of ethics explicitly indicates that board members should 'confine board action to policy making, planning and appraisal.' The past year of my service on this board has been anything but that. There were nine of us on this board, but generally it was not a body of union."

"Rather it was a clashing of individualism bent on personal vendettas, subterfuge and individual desire. We have all suffered from this action of lack of action, and in the final analyses our school system now sits on the brink of misfortune for both students and the professional personnel."

"There is little to say in constructive comments on the Board of Education in Ellenville. It has been more than a challenge to sit on the board, but a challenge in itself is not enough. The calibre of individuals is the keynote for accepting this challenge, and this leaves so much to be desired here."

Kenneth MacAlpin established the first united kingdom of Scotland in 844 A.D.

POWER FROM THE NORTH will be flowing into British Columbia's Vancouver area when the huge Portage Mountain Dam on the Peace River is completed. Begun in 1961, the dam taps one of the most valuable hydroelectric generating sites in North America. The completed dam will be a mile long and a half-mile thick at the base with the largest underground powerhouse of its type in the world, three times larger than a football field. A lake 170 miles long and 70 miles wide will be backed up and power will reach Vancouver through a 574-mile transmission line.

Hopes Expansion Of Plattekill PO Will Add Routes

Larger quarters for the U.S. Post Office at Plattekill as planned by the Regional Director of the Post Office Department and announced by Town Supervisor Joseph Martorana could result in the expansion of rural routes in the community.

Pointing to the need of new rural routes, Martorana noted that in his letter last year to Washington authorities, he recommended that the post offices in the township have rural routes of their own.

Sees Better Service
"This," the supervisor said, "would result in better service and would eliminate the confusion of post office addresses such as Walkkill, Mariboro, Newburgh, Gardiner, New Paltz or Highland, which indicate a village or town other than the one in which they reside."

Martorana noted further that at the present time the rural areas surrounding the four post offices located in the Town of Plattekill are served by routes originating from post offices outside the town, some over 10 miles away. The supervisor said he anticipates that in the future "these poor and confusing conditions" will also be remedied.

The announcement of the new post office in Plattekill follows by almost a year a request made in September 1965 by Martorana, calling for an addition to the existing building or the construction of a completely new post office building in the same area.

In support of his request the supervisor had noted that the present post office building was too small and inadequate to serve the needs of a growing community and submitted pictures and detailed information. Martorana's recommendation was contained in a letter to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick dated Sept. 4, 1965, copies of which were sent to the postmaster general in Washington and to U.S. Senators Jacob K. Javits and Robert F. Kennedy.

Martorana also noted that the letter he received from the regional director stated that the new space requirements calling for larger quarters has been forwarded to the Real Estate Branch of the Post Office Department with a request to proceed to acquire larger quarters.

"I am very pleased and elated at the good news and I predict that the new post office building will also justify the creation of new rural routes using a Plattekill address," Martorana said in commenting on the Post Office Department decision.

Fire Spacecraft For Solar Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States today launched the Pioneer 7 spacecraft toward an orbit around the sun, aiming to reap the "solar wind" — clouds of radiation that blow through space as a potential threat to astronauts.

The three-stage Delta rocket, spouting a serpentine trail of white smoke, blasted away from Cape Kennedy at 11:20 a.m. to start the 140-pound scientific package on a marathon journey.

The flight control center reported early phases of the mission appeared excellent as the rocket winged out over the Atlantic Ocean. The space agency hoped to know within an hour whether Pioneer 7 achieved a solar orbit.

As Pioneer 7 cruises around the sun on a path between the earth and Mars, it was to gather information on the solar wind, radiation, magnetic fields and other properties of interplanetary space.

It could help forecast when dangerous radiation-producing flares might erupt on the sun, permitting manned lunar and planetary flights to be rescheduled.

World News In Brief

Trotsky Memory Out

MOSCOW (AP) — The memory of revolutionist Leon Trotsky will not be rehabilitated, Pravda said today. The Communist party paper criticized Western sources for suggesting such a thing might occur during the 50th anniversary celebrations of the revolution.

Trotsky was perhaps second only to V.I. Lenin as a leader of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution that brought communism to power. He lost out in a struggle with Josef V. Stalin and was later murdered in Mexico. He is denounced in the Soviet Union as a traitor.

Purge Peking Producer
HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's top movie producer has been purged because his film advocated "human love" between a rich man and poor girl, a Hong Kong newspaper said today.

"This lack of class struggle is a clear case of revisionism," the independent newspaper Ming Pao said in reporting Tsai Chu-sheng was the latest Chinese leader to be caught up in Peking's purge.

The newspaper said Tsai, chairman of All China Confederation of Motion Picture Workers, and his magazine, Motion Picture Arts, had been under severe attack from newspapers in Communist China for anti-party activities.

Urge 'JFK Spirit'
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A presidential conference of five Latin-American countries wound up Tuesday night with a call to bring back "the spirit of John F. Kennedy" to the Alliance for Progress.

The presidents of Chile, Venezuela and Colombia and the representatives of Ecuador and Peru said the alliance should be an instrument for the defense of prices of Latin America's basic exports.

Named to Wage Board
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller named Byron R. DeWitt of Pavillion in western New York State today to the Advisory Board on Prevailing Rate of Wages on Public Work.

DeWitt, 62, will represent employers on the nine-man board for an unspecified term, at a salary of $35 per day while on board business.

DeWitt is president of a Genesee County construction firm.

Port Ewen Man Loses Leg, Run Over by Train

A Port Ewen father of six is recovering in Massachusetts General Hospital after a railroad train ran over his right leg, severing it below the knee early today.

Charles J. Barton, 46, of 192 Salem Street, Port Ewen, was reportedly on the tracks of the Boston and Main Railroad when the engineer of an oncoming train spotted him.

The engineer tried to stop but could not before a tank car rolled over Barton and severed the leg. Fire fighters and police jacked up the tank car to free him.

Earlier he was reported in serious condition in the Massachusetts hospital due to shock and severe loss of blood. However, his condition has improved and he's now listed as satisfactory.

Barton is married to the former Rita Murphy, who was born in New York City but resided in Sawkill before her marriage. The six Barton children range in age from six to 19.

Barton is employed as the first mate on the tugboat M.A. Anna, owned by the Oil Tanker Corp. of New York. He has been employed by that company for the past ten years. The Bartons have been residents of Port Ewen for about 15 years.

Alliance Prodded By Johnson to 'Set New Sights'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called today for the economic integration of Latin America and a united drive to raise living standards.

In what was described by high government officials as an attempt to apply a "second stage booster" to the Alliance for Progress program, Johnson declared "the alliance must set new sights."

"First among these," he said, "is the economic integration of Latin America."

Several months ago, on a visit to Mexico, Johnson proposed a meeting of hemisphere chiefs of state. He gave no clue on a possible meeting date in his prepared speech today on the fifth anniversary of the alliance, thought the target date is understood to be early December.

Officials described the President's speech as aimed at helping prepare a possible agenda for the hemisphere summit. In it, Johnson listed some priorities to consider in the years ahead.

"The question is whether progress lies ahead in unity or isolation. Our sister republics in Latin America must decide that question for themselves. For our part, we believe that effective unity is vital to the needs of expanding populations," Johnson said.

"To my fellow presidents, I pledge: Move boldly along this path and the United States will be at your side. To all the hemisphere we say: Let the pace be quickened. Time is not our ally."

Johnson also listed education, agriculture and arms limitations as areas for priority action.

Drivers Sentenced
Two drivers booked on charges after traffic mishaps were sentenced in city court today. A charge of leaving the scene of an accident on Highland Avenue against Carl Parand, 74, of 44 Clifton Avenue, was dismissed and he was fined $15 on one dealing with failure to keep right. Attorney Sherwood E. Davis appeared for him and Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher for the prosecution.

Arthur P. Johnson, 43, of 52 St. James Street, charged with leaving the scene of a mishap at Grand Street and Broadway, pleaded to the lesser charge of failure to keep right, and was fined $15. Attorney Bernard A. Feeney Jr., appeared for him and Fisher for the prosecution.

Hurt by Rolling Car
Angeline Carputo, 52, of 134 Broadway, suffered leg and arm injuries when she attempted to stop a car which started to roll on Broadway near Brewster Street after she had gotten out of it. She was to be treated by a doctor. The car continued to roll and struck a building at 351 Broadway. Officer Kenneth Radel investigated.

Senate Group Will Reopen TFX Plane Study at Hearing

By BEM PRIC

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee plans to reopen the whole bitter question of whether the United States is buying a second-best warplane — the TFX — to save $1 billion.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, said so Tuesday in the Senate without specifying just exactly when.

Presumably, however, the hearing will be held prior to the time the Navy has to decide whether its version of the TFX, called the F111B, is useful. The Navy will reach a conclusion next March or April.

In a brief, off-the-floor interview, McClellan said he would propose an amendment, probably today, to the $59-billion defense appropriations bill fortifying the Pentagon to procure F111Bs through the expenditure of appropriated but unused funds.

The present appropriation bill does not include money for the purchase of the F111B beyond the five included in a research and development contract with General Dynamics of Fort Worth, Tex.

Gets Statement

In an exchange with Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, McClellan elicited this statement from Russell: "The Navy states it cannot utilize the plane in its present configuration."

Four of the five Navy prototypes have been produced. A fifth is due off the assembly lines at Calverton, N.Y., this month. Grumman Aircraft and

Report on Road Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Public Roads reports that 173.6 miles of highway were under construction or had been completed as of June 30 in the Appalachian highway program.

In a quarterly report issued Tuesday, the bureau also said engineering and right-of-way acquisitions were underway on an additional 451 miles.

Total length of the Appalachian road system will be 2,901.8 miles.

Engineering is subcontractor to General Dynamics for the Navy version.

At the time Model 4 came off the lines in July, industry sources reported it was 12 to 18 months behind development schedule.

Can't Measure Saving

McClellan noted in the interview that nobody, including Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, ever had come up with a yardstick by which the claim of a $1-billion saving could be measured.

In a statement on the Senate floor, McClellan said: "Four years ago, when Secretary McNamara four times overruled the competent judgment and recommendations of our best professional and civilian experts — approximately 235 of them — and selected the second-best design and proposal which was submitted by General Dynamics over the design and proposal submitted by the Boeing Co. (of Seattle), it was claimed by the Department of Defense that we would need more than 1,700 of these planes."

Asks Reason

"Now that we are in a war which apparently may be of long duration and in which we have already lost more than 300 planes over North Viet Nam alone, why is the Department of Defense scaling down its requirements and buying a smaller number — maybe less than 1,000 — of these planes?"

"It surely cannot be said that our arsenal is adequate or that the need is less urgent. Is this reduction in acquisition being made because it is now conceded that the plane is inferior? Or is it because 1,000 planes, or even a lesser number, will cost more than it was represented that the original number of 1,700 would cost?"

Back in 1963 McNamara told the McClellan committee he had based his savings claim on a "rough judgment."

Hints at Blunder

McClellan asked, "Is this vaunted 'rough judgment' computer claim of a billion dollars' savings proving to be instead just a reckless $5-billion blunder?"

The whole TFX controversy began in November 1962, after an Air Force-Navy evaluation board had concluded that a design for an all-purpose warplane submitted by Boeing was operationally superior — and cheaper — than one designed by General Dynamics.

McNamara selected the General Dynamics design on the grounds that it offered a higher degree of common parts and therefore the supply and procurement of spare parts would be cheaper over the long run.

Face Showdown On Call Up Plan For Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators face a showdown today on a proposal to give President Johnson authority to call up thousands of young military reservists — now exempt — for possible combat duty in Viet Nam.

The President has not asked for such authority.

The reserves proposal and other controversial riders — including a proposed $522.5-million slash — upset plans of Senate leaders to complete passage Tuesday of a massive $38 billion-plus defense money bill.

Needing a two-thirds majority to add their reserve callup proposal to the appropriation measure, Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., based their appeal on fair treatment for draftees and volunteers in the Southeast Asian war.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, presumably with White House backing, has rejected congressional suggestions that the citizen-soldiers be called to active duty.

The Russell-Saltonstall proposal would permit Johnson to call to active duty for 18 months any ready reservist whose previous service was limited to training. Existing law limits the active service of a reservist to one year unless a national emergency has been called. Neither Congress nor the President has done so in the Viet Nam crisis.

But Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said some GOP senators oppose calling up the reservists. He said it may be difficult to obtain a two-thirds margin.

Officials estimated that more than 500,000 ready reservists, including the 133,000 who Russell and Saltonstall say lack basic training, would come under the Senate proposal.

Educational Tent at Fair

TB, Health Featuring Air Pollution and Respiratory

"Air Pollution and Respiratory Disease" is the theme of the Ulster County TB and Health Association's health education information display in the educational tent at the 1966 Ulster County Fair, Forsyth Park, today and Thursday.

"Doctors are finding more and more reason to believe that Air Pollution may make a number of sicknesses worse, especially in older people with Respiratory Diseases," pointed out Association Executive Director E. Robert Johnson, in announcing this. "The TB-RD Christmas Seal group is the single force here in our area wholly dedicated to work for the control of the rapidly increasing Respiratory Diseases and toward the eventual elimination of Tuberculosis," he added. "Thus committed deeply to these problems, we must and do have enormous concern with Air Pollution and its effects on Respiratory problems. Our annual booth at our Ulster County Fair has always provided us with a remarkably effective and far-reaching exposure to broad health knowledge of the people of our county," he concluded, and therefore, has been geared this year as a people-oriented health display on Air Pollution and the Respiratory Diseases."

Focus on Pollution

The Association's Air Pollution-Respiratory Disease Booth will focus on sources of air pollution, respiratory effects, interest and action. Such pollutants as gases and fumes, automobile and truck exhausts, smoke, pollen and dust will be identified by photographs that will represent common sources of each. These, in turn, will be correlated to leading, professionally prepared educational literature on breathing and respiratory problems. These materials will be available to all guests, free of charge, provided as a Christmas Seal educational service of the Association's highly active Public Education Program.

Johnson also pointed out that several pollen-bearing plants also will be present in the display which produce hay fever and allergic respiratory reactions. "In this way," he noted, "guests at our Air Pollution Booth can learn to identify the most common offenders amongst the pollen-bearing weeds."

The information lay-out will utilize posters and charts to further outline Respiratory problems, the relation of air pollution and the adverse effects also and most vitally of cigarette smoking as "self-induced air pollution." The total plan of the booth will update concern about the most serious of the rapidly increasing Respiratory Diseases, especially Emphysema. This one severe breathing problem will occupy a prominent place since Emphysema is now the fastest rising cause of death, and is the second leading cause of disability.

ty. Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever and the other respiratory diseases also will be represented.

Special Highlights

"We have two special highlights in the whole forceful display which we believe will interest our Ulster County people," Johnson said. "The first of these is drawn proudly from the talent and intellect of our own Ulster County youth through our Association-sponsored School Press Project. The three Ulster County school papers that were National Certificate of Honor winners in this past 1965 School Press Project, competing with school editions from across the United States, will be featured in this display. Each one is a youth publication concerned with health, specifically Respiratory Disease, Tuberculosis and the effects of Air Pollution. Moreover, one of these is an editorial geared entirely to Air Pollution, including its cover design."

"The second special highlight has to do with health legislation," Johnson noted. "In more than half a century of dogged hard work in health, the Association has heavily pushed and supported legislation to further good health aims. Our display will show a copy of the Association's letter to three leading state officials urging them to support more stringent Air Pollution measures in the Air Pollution law then being prepared. With this letter, the original, signed replies from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sen. Lloyd A. Newcombe and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson also will be displayed. This is an example of our local voluntary health agency's exchange with state representatives and officials on points of concern in the vital Air Pollution problem," Johnson concluded.

The current, up-to-date and far from "Liked" position of Tuberculosis also will be condensed for ready information at the booth. The wide range of TB-RD Association activities in Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases, wholly provided as a Christmas Seal health program, will be embodied in the exhibit.

Booth Staff Announced

John M. Robbins, president of the Association, urged Ulster County people at the fair to visit the Air Pollution-Respiratory Disease exhibit, and noted that guests will be greeted and guided through the display by Johnson, Miss Almira Porter, R.N., and Miss Mabel Robinson, R.N., the Association's program volunteer staff. Assisting as attendants at the display today will be Miss Mary Terwilliger, Miss Grace Terwilliger, program volunteers; Miss Kathleen I. Shurter, R.N., Association Board member, and Supervisor of School Nursing, Kingston Consolidated Schools, and Mrs. Margaret R. Resseguie, Association

Marvella Asks Decent Low-Rent Homes for Poor

Our continuing inability to provide decent housing for the poor is a glaring indictment of a society which has never been more prosperous and can boast of an advanced technology that is literally "reaching for the moon." In this "era of affluence," it is tragic that the propositions to finance a minimal amount of public housing were defeated at the polls. There remains the overwhelming need to provide new housing for the poor.

Failure to eliminate slums and produce healthy residential environments in underprivileged neighborhoods has nourished the incubating grounds for the social ills that threaten the life of our cities. At the very least, the lack of adequate, decent low-rent housing in cities with persistent housing shortages may threaten the future of urban renewal programs because there may be no place to relocate the slum-dwellers who occupy areas scheduled for redevelopment.

POWELL, Pa. (AP) — Benjamin H. Motherwell, 78, of Athens, Pa., was found dead in his car Tuesday after it collided with a gravel truck on Route 414 near here in Bradford County. Police said an autopsy has been ordered to determine if Motherwell died of natural causes before the crash.

Hubert Lauds Fulbright

Solon Leads Probe Of How U.S. Waging Propaganda Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright leads his Senate Foreign Relations Committee today into a probe of how the United States is waging another side of the Viet Nam war — the propaganda battle.

He called Leonard H. Marks, chief of the U.S. Information Agency, to explain some of his agency's efforts to swing foreign opinion on the war, such as paying the fare for some 27 overseas journalists to visit Viet Nam.

Fulbright said he saw no reason to keep such an operation secret and added that the committee members also might want to question Marks about other USIA activities in influencing foreign opinion.

As the hearings open, the highest administration praise Fulbright has heard in months was still ringing in his ears.

Draws Lavish Praise Fulbright, who has been at odds with the Johnson administration for months over Viet Nam policy, drew lavish praise Tuesday from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Humphrey lauded the Arkansas Democrat for "a great act of diplomacy." Humphrey referred to a statement Fulbright had made in an interview with The Associated Press in which he said Hanoi and Peking would be mistaken if they refused to negotiate an end to the war in the belief President Johnson stood alone in his policy.

As evidence that the President was not isolated in his policy, Fulbright contended that Congress was actually more warlike than Johnson.

After reading Fulbright's remarks, Humphrey invited him to his office.

"I called him on my own as a representative of the administration to say thank you," Humphrey told newsmen later.

"Many people are led to believe our nation is divided and might weaken our resolve," Humphrey added.

Should Clear Air But he said this "statement by a leader of the loyal opposition should make crystal-clear to Hanoi and Peking" they would be mistaken in acting on that belief.

Humphrey added, "I think Bill Fulbright has performed an act of great patriotism and statesmanship."

Fulbright, who has been the target of some sharp administration criticism for his opposition to Johnson's Viet Nam policy, appeared pleased by Humphrey's praise but declined to discuss his meeting with the vice president other than to say they had discussed many things, including foreign aid.

Fulbright and a group of his top committee members are meeting with a like contingent from the House in efforts to hammer out a compromise between sharply differing versions of the House and Senate foreign-aid bills.

One member of the House group, championing a bill closer to the administration wishes than the Senate had passed, painted a gloom outlook for the proceedings: "We sit in there and fight like hell."

Plan to Resume Talks Today on Newspaper Strike

NW YORK (AP) — Negotiations for the World Journal Tribune Inc. resume talks today with officers of the Pressmen's Union — the only one of the 10 newspaper industry unions that has never reached any agreement with the corporation during the 115 days its publication has been tied up.

Federal mediator Robert E. Kennedy said during a recess in the talks Tuesday that they had been "productive."

When the negotiations were recessed overnight, spokesmen for both sides said no issues had been settled.

Bertram A. Powers, president of Printers Union Local 6 which also resumed negotiations Tuesday, said after the session that he was confident his union and the corporation would be able to settle quickly the new problems caused by the death of the Herald Tribune.

Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the Newspaper Guild of New York, was optimistic about quick new agreements between the World Journal Tribune and all 10 unions.

Murphy said: "Any reasonable approach by the unions and management could permit publication of the papers by the target date the publishers have."

Negotiations between the corporation and the guild are set for tomorrow.

New Issues Raised Frank H. Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, is working to set up negotiations between the corporation and the other unions this week to settle issues raised by the dropping of the Herald Tribune.

The corporation had reached contract agreements with nine of the 10 unions before it announced Monday that it was discontinuing the Herald Tribune, which it had planned to publish weekday morning.

The corporation now plans to publish the World Journal Tribune on weekday afternoons and a Sunday newspaper with the same name.

That is an increase of 66 cents hundredweight over the average price last year.

Oneida County had the milkshed's highest receipts in April for the second straight month, according to figures released Tuesday.

Next in order were these counties: St. Lawrence, Delaware, Chenango, Bradford, Pa., Cortland, Jefferson, Orange, Steuben and Montgomery.

Some experts estimate that India's population will be 550 million by 1971.

Liberals Against Passing New Laws On Sale of Arms

The Issues Committee of the party at its latest session adopted a recommendation to the County Executive Committee that the Dutchess Liberal party take a strong position against any restrictive legislation concerning the buying, selling or use of firearms.

The next meeting of the Issues Committee will be held Saturday at Freedom Hall in Rhinebeck. The agenda has been cleared and will consist mainly of discussions of local preference for a party statewide ticket. It is for that reason that the meeting will be open to all registered Liberals as well as committeemen of the party. The results of the meeting will not be made public but will be forwarded to the State Policy Committee for use in their deliberations.

Predicts $5.21 Milk Average for Last Half

NEW YORK (AP) — The administrator of the New York-New Jersey milk marketing area predicts that dairy farmers will average $5.21 a hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for their milk during the last half of 1966.

That is an increase of 66 cents hundredweight over the average price last year.

Oneida County had the milkshed's highest receipts in April for the second straight month, according to figures released Tuesday.

Next in order were these counties: St. Lawrence, Delaware, Chenango, Bradford, Pa., Cortland, Jefferson, Orange, Steuben and Montgomery.

Some experts estimate that India's population will be 550 million by 1971.

Murphy said: "Any reasonable approach by the unions and management could permit publication of the papers by the target date the publishers have."

Negotiations between the corporation and the guild are set for tomorrow.

New Issues Raised Frank H. Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, is working to set up negotiations between the corporation and the other unions this week to settle issues raised by the dropping of the Herald Tribune.

The corporation had reached contract agreements with nine of the 10 unions before it announced Monday that it was discontinuing the Herald Tribune, which it had planned to publish weekday morning.

The corporation now plans to publish the World Journal Tribune on weekday afternoons and a Sunday newspaper with the same name.

Discusses Exemption for Elderly

Wilson Tells WTTA New Law Is Vague, Needs Amending

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson addressed members of the Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association at an annual meeting Saturday night at Deane's Restaurant here.

His talk proved interesting listening to the group and the audience was especially attentive to his explanation of the new section 476 of the Real Property Tax Law of New York State, the bill for which was co-sponsored by Wilson and the late Sen. Elisha T. Barrett.

Wilson frankly said he was not satisfied with this new law, which he described as "vague" in some respects. He recognizes, he said, that the limitation of the 50 per cent-of-assessed-valuation tax-exemption for persons over 65 to those whose income does not exceed $3,000 yearly, should conceivably be higher. He blamed an especially hectic 1966 session of the State Legislature for the fact that it was not made higher; said he had concluded it was expedient to "take what one could get" and reserve for the future the suggesting of amendments which he has in mind to propose.

Walter H. Schulman, president of WTTA, thanked Wilson for his persistent efforts to achieve enactment of this over-65 exemption. Wilson had emphasized that in his view it was important to establish the principle of real property tax relief for persons over 65, and then improve the law. The president of WTTA expressed the gratitude of the Association for what Wilson had himself said was "a step in the right direction."

Results of Questionnaire

The results of the questionnaire on property tax exemption which WTTA had submitted to its members several weeks before the meeting, proved to be of interest. Schulman, who tallied the answers to the "Yes" "No" questions, reported that of the total membership of 170, there were 115 replies. Of those answering, three out of four were not eligible for exemption because their income exceeded $3,000 per year. Nevertheless, out of the 115 who replied, 81 approved action by the Woodstock Town Board and the Ontario Central Schools District to adopt the 50 per cent-of-assessed-valuation tax exemption under Section 467 of the Real Property Tax Law, and 28 were opposed, with six noncommittal, or three to one in favor of adopting the exemption as a local law or ordinance for the Township of Woodstock. The answers to the questionnaire do not represent official action by WTTA on this tax-exemption question, which will be decided in the not too distant future. Any taxpayer of Ulster County is now eligible for membership in WTTA, if he or she, or his or her spouse, is the owner of real property in the county, according to the amendment to the constitution and by-laws unanimously voted at the meeting. WTTA cordially invites applications for membership addressed to WTTA, P.O. Box 383, Woodstock.

Elected as officers for the year 1966-67 were: president, Walter H. Schulman; vice-president, Chester Miller; treasurer, Arthur P. Shepard; secretary, Annette I. Dietz; and as Directors — Annette I. Dietz, Hazel Freitag, Charles Greco, Chester Miller, Vincent Milora, Nathaniel O. Robinson, Walter H. Schulman, Arthur P. Shepard, Karl Siegel, Louis Steckler, and Zenna Winslow.

Amy Andre Seen In Solo Theatre At Local Camp

Monology, many feel, is one of the most difficult mediums of acting since the performer relies entirely upon herself for setting the scene, enacting the dialogue and presenting the character. The enormously talented character actress, Amy Andre, is able to do with agility and conviction. In her all too brief presentation on Saturday night at Creative Arts Camp here, Miss Andre, whose work is well-known in this field, carried her audience from laughter to tears in sharply drawn, sensitive portrayals. It was a rare treat for those privileged to watch her and it is to be hoped that Woodstock will again have the opportunity to hear her this season.

Earlier in the summer, Ruth Ingalls, director of the Creative Arts Camp, presented Amy Andre at a reception in her honor and at that time, Miss Andre vividly and poignantly defined Mary Todd Lincoln in costume of the period. A stirring performance which contrasted from the one given Saturday night, which included a group of sketches which were largely comedy. One sketch of an elderly lady buying her first red hat was not only penetrating in its perception but deeply moving as it progressed from humor to pathos.

Miss Andre is director of drama at the camp's Theatre Arts School, which recently produced the enchanting Toad of Toad Hall by A. A. Milne, locally. Here for the summer, Miss Andre makes her home in New York and Palm Beach, Fla.

FAIR TIME AGAIN—Sunny skies and pleasant temperatures greeted the 1966 version of the Overlook Methodist Church Fair Saturday. The fair is considered one of the top three in Woodstock yearly, along with the Library Fair and the Democratic Club rummage sale and fair. Hundreds of local residents purchased items of

Planning Bazaar For Benedictine

So successful was last year's bazaar and food sale in Woodstock to benefit the Benedictine Hospital building fund that the event has been established as an annual affair.

This year's version will take place Saturday, Sept. 3, from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m., at 114 Tinker Street, directly opposite the Woodstock Post Office. Monies raised through the affair will be used to purchase needed equipment for the hospital.

A hard working committee of local women is putting much effort into assuring those attending a day of fun and relaxation, as well as eating enjoyment. New this year is a feature which will offer all the food anyone can eat for only one dollar. Co-chairmen Peggy Egan and Adele Longendyke, with the assistance of many willing workers, have promised an occasion which will lend itself to browsing, eating and entertainment over the upcoming holiday weekend. Planned are booths featuring jewelry, baked goods, clothing, china, shoes, hats and—the big highlight — an auction of paintings donated by local artists, who feel the Benedictine project is worthy of participation.

Committee chairmen for the event include Elizabeth Clough, Margaret Antenucci, Judy Goodrich, Mildred Webster, Jackie Thibaut, Elizabeth Webster, Judy Sheldon, Geraldine Jeronim, Alice Freer and others.

The co-chairmen urge anyone interested in more information to call them. They have also announced that, in the event of rain, the bazaar and sale will be held Monday, Sept. 5. Donations of articles for the event may be left at 114 Tinker

Colony Arts Sets Final Antiques Show of Season

Visitors to the Woodstock antiques show at the Colony Arts Center on Rock City Road, Sept. 2 through 4, may have a choice of two free Hudson River prints.

The offer of a free print at the Woodstock antiques shows has proved so popular that at the Labor Day week-end show, visitors will have a choice of two large prints previously published by the Colony Arts Center. Subject of the first print is the famous Hudson River steamboat, "The Mary Powell," entering the Highlands and was first engraved more than 100 years ago. The second print is of the old Catskill Mountain House, a famous landmark hostelry of the 19th Century. Both prints are 11 by 14 inches in size and frame up nicely.

The Woodstock show is widely known for its special exhibition and sale of books, prints, primitives and other items related to the Catskill Mountains and Hudson River valley areas, in addition to the thousands of other collectible items sought after at antiques shows, such as jewelry, glass, bric-a-brac, furniture, lamps, utensils, silver, pewter, rare glass and china, guns, painting and wall decor.

This will be the final Woodstock summer antiques show of the season and the last opportunity of the year to find so many items of local interest for sale in one setting. Show hours are from 1 to 10 p. m. Friday and Saturday and 1 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

Street any time prior to the affair and baked goods, such as cakes, pies, etc., should be delivered to that address on the morning of the sale.

RV Rescue Squad Reports Active Sunday, Monday

The Rescue Squad was very busy Sunday and Monday of this week.

Sunday evening, Aug. 14 they answered a call on Fairview Avenue, High Falls. It was a one car accident. Paul Cressy went down an embankment a few feet from his own driveway. He suffered a possible broken nose, face lacerations and neck injuries. His passenger, Mrs. Julia Roach, suffered a broken hip. The Rescue Squad took them to the Benedictine Hospital.

Monday evening the Squad answered another one car call. The accident occurred on Route 209, Stone Ridge. The car driven by Warren Cornell of Honesdale, Penn., crashed into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers. Their home was badly damaged. Mr. Cornell was dead and Mrs. Cornell died enroute to the hospital.

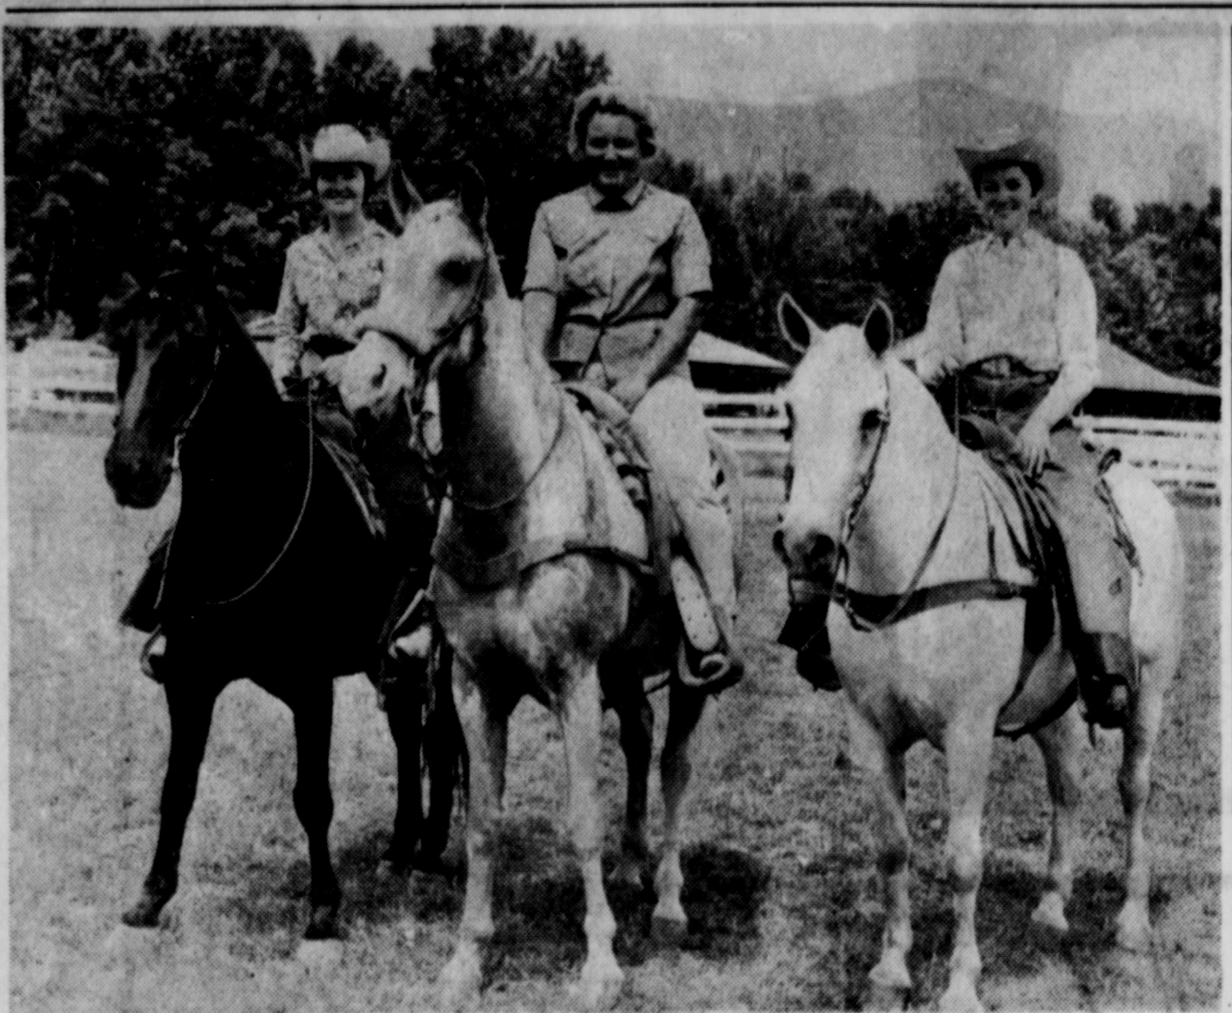

While the squad was cleaning the ambulance, a crew member called to report they were again available, they were told they had another call to answer. This was promptly dispatched.

The regular monthly meeting was in progress Monday evening and the members were waiting for the crew to return, since three of the squad members are officers. The members present did some preparations for the REKOP game to be played Monday night.

Lloyd Spearman was up on crutches Monday. He is a hospital patient.

Workers are needed on Saturday and Sunday to continue work on the building.

Salamanders can be distinguished from other amphibians in that they have a tail throughout their lives.

VETERANS ALL—Among dozens of riders competing in the Woodstock Riding Club's big horse show at the Ohayo Mountain ring last Sunday were three veterans of the local horse show circuit. Year in and year out, spectators at these club-sponsored events will find the above trio of riders entered in the competition.

Pianist Donates Concert Hall Fee In Friend's Name

Woodstock musician Isabelle Byman announced today that she will contribute her performing fee from this coming Sunday's Maverick Concert to the Maverick Hall Fund in memory of the late Eda Mahler Graf. Mrs. Graf, prior to her death, was a well-known patron of the arts and a Woodstock resident for many years.

In making the announcement of her donation, Isabelle Byman said:

"In the summer of 1950, I was introduced to Eda and Felix Graf by Dorothy Vette, who thought that I should meet these people who were in "the musical world" because I was a musician. I recall that at the time I was reluctant to meet any more people than necessary. However, our paths crossed one day in the village and we were introduced.

"On later acquaintance I was surprised to learn that Eda Graf knew most of the people I knew in the music world. She even knew my illustrious piano teacher, Olga Samaroff Stokowsky. She was very close to Joseph Turnau and saw him often on his way to Pine Hill where Turnau Opera originated before moving to Woodstock.

Held Open House

"Eda Graf's sparkling wit, courage, diplomacy and good sense endeared her to me, as to all people who knew her, and we became fast friends. Before retiring to Woodstock in 1949,

Christian Science Topic is "Mind"

"Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite." This well-known verse from Psalm 147 is the Golden Text for this week's Bible lesson-sermon on "Mind" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday.

Included among the explanatory readings from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will Eda and Felix Graf's home in Larchmont was "open house" to all personalities in all the arts. Eugene Ormandy of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra was a frequent guest — and Felix Graf's nephew, Herbert Graf, renowned stage director of the Metropolitan Opera, was there often.

"Eda Graf loved Woodstock and was vitally interested in all its activities, contributing generously to any and all causes. She always attended the Maverick Concerts and, in later years, never missed any of my performances—even when her sight was failing and it had become increasingly difficult for her to get around because of her condition.

"To me, she is an unforgettable character and I shall miss her and remember her sitting in the front row at the Maverick each time I play there."

be these lines: "Nothing is new to Spirit. Nothing can be novel to eternal Mind, the author of all things, who from all eternity knoweth His own ideas. Deity was satisfied with His work. How could He be otherwise: since the spiritual creation was the outgrowth, the emanation, of His infinite self-containment and immortal wisdom?"

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

I see there will be a Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming 83020 U.S. five cent stamp covering National Park Service, Aug. 29, the five cent Marine Corps Reserve stamp will come out from Washington, D. C. 20013. The five cent Johnny Appleseed stamp will be out Sept. 24, from Leominster, Mass., 01453.

Being we are apple country, the story of Johnny Appleseed is interesting. His real name was John Chapman, and he was a direct descendant of Edward Chapman who migrated in the 1640's from Yorkshire to Boston. According to Leslie Marshall, author of article on Johnny Appleseed, in Stamps magazine of Aug. 6, 1966, Edward Chapman had a farm and was a miller in Ipswich, Mass.

Johnny Chapman was the second child of Elizabeth Simmonds and Nathaniel Chapman who were married in Leominster in 1770. Nathaniel was a farmer also, and served in the Revolutionary army. When Johnny Appleseed was 18 years old he and his half-brother Nathaniel, 11, decided to go west. This was in 1792. Reaching what is now the Wilkes Barre region, Johnny saw a cider mill, where he became interested in seeds from the "pumice" that had been cast out. He dried and sanded them, and no doubt thought he could replant them, which he did and thus became famous.

Nathaniel Chapman, Johnny's father also went west with his family, settling at Marietta, Ohio. Johnny started to plant his appleseeds, although historians say that the Indians had planted some long before this. Johnny was brought up in a religious home, where no doubt the Bible was read daily and so he brought Bibles on his trips to the settlers. It is said he obtained these Bibles from William Schlatter, a Philadelphia dry goods merchant.

No doubt the reading of the Bible taught the colonists how to read out loud and later their children when old enough also read the Bible loud and clear at family gatherings. Those who could write had a good script writing, and were very polite in their letter-writing.

Historians try to follow Johnny Appleseed and feel he traveled wide and far going to Richmond, Ind., and Sandusky, Ohio, and Goshen, Ind., and Wheeling, W. Va. I read elsewhere, that he would make trips along the same route to see how his seeds were taking root and would instruct farmers what to do. At this time he also left parts of the Bible, as he could only carry so many, and then pick up what he left, and leave other parts, a sort of traveling lending library, and no doubt discuss parts of the Bible.

Mrs. Ophia D. Smith wrote on The Story of Johnny Appleseed, and she felt he was "small and wiry, average height, quick in speech and restless. His cheeks were hollow and body spare, for he walked much and ate little. His eyes were brilliant, and had long black hair which came down to his shoulders. He might have had a black beard."

Other writings tell about his eloquence; his resonant voice, and in a Norwalk, Ohio Reflector newspaper of June 1883, they tell of a speech he made in Huron County. He wore the garb most easy to get and comfortable of the frontier days, and had large pockets to carry his Bible and other reading matter for distribution. He carried a bag of some sort for his seeds and other things needed for his journey. The stamp shows him with a shovel, and boots, although it is said he often went barefooted, no doubt to save his boots for hard walking. He wears a pan on his head, so it seems, which saved him carrying it on his walking tours.

"THE BOATING PARTY" by Mary Cassatt is the sixth and latest in the annually issued American Painting series of stamps. The 19th-century impressionist painting hangs in the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C.

Left Hollywood To Learn Craft: Farley Granger

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I left Hollywood because I didn't know my craft," says Farley Granger. "I was a star, but I knew nothing of the techniques of acting. I figured I'd better learn, or I'd be in trouble when the star aspects of my career wore off."

Granger has returned to a Hollywood career after a 13-year absence. He admits to being 41, but it's hard to believe. He still has the lean, boyish look — "Tennis and calisthenics help" — that thrilled female hearts in the postwar period.

His last movie here was "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing" in 1955. He has returned for television shows and in repertory with Eva LeGallienne's company, but his home remained in New York.

Governors to Meet
BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — A special session of the National Governors Conference will be held at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Dec. 16 and 17. The announcement was made by Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota, chairman of the conference.

National Police Group Head Sees Major Revolution

CLEVELAND (AP) — The national president of the Fraternal Order of Police says the United States is headed for a major revolution unless steps are taken to halt outbreaks of racial violence in the nation's large cities.

Sgt. John J. Harrington, a member of the Philadelphia police force for 26 years, made the remark in an interview here Monday night. He said President Johnson should order a thorough investigation of rioting agitators to halt what he called the revolutionary movement.

Note Start of Riots
"All over the United States — in Cleveland, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, the South — small fires of revolution in the form of riots are starting," Harrington said.

"Riot control is not a policeman's job. It is a job for the militia. I am of the opinion that martial law should be declared when the militia is called into such a situation."

Score Scotus Ruling
Harrington also criticized a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling limiting police in their questioning of suspected criminals.

He said the ruling has "made the policeman's job so disrespected and abused and so dangerous that the police force in Washington is right now paying a $50 bounty to anybody who can find a recruit to take the Washington police examination."

He said the Philadelphia Police Department has lowered its standards in an effort to attract new recruits.

Harrington is in Cleveland for the national meeting of the FOP's 50 directors.

The list will be posted in public places and distributed among the clergy, doctors and realtors.

The next regular meeting of the organization will be held Thursday, Aug. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

Seat Belts in Trunk
Crash Kills Woman.

WHITNEY POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Her 11-year-old automobile contained a new pair of seat belts, but State Police said the belts were locked in the trunk when Mrs. Blanche Freedlove died in a one-car crash Tuesday.

Troopers said Mrs. Freedlove, 54, of Whitney Point, was killed when the automobile she was driving went off Route 11 on Two-Mile Hill, north of Binghamton, and slammed into rocks.

DEADLY FIREWORKS light up the deck of a landing ship, the USS White River, in a dawn assault from the sea on Viet Cong strongholds in South Viet Nam. The back blast of a rocket just ignited flares amid sparks from another rocket fired an instant before.

At Ridge Book Sale

To Display Deed Noting Library Founded in 1805

A recently discovered document indicating Stone Ridge Library was established 161 years ago will be displayed at the fund-raising book sale at the library Saturday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

It was reported to officers and supporters of the library by C. W. Pedersen of Krumville that he had found an old deed at Ulster County Clerk's Office showing that the library is about 100 years older than originally revealed by other documents.

"I'm very interested in old land grants and partitions of land in the Townships of Olive, in which I live, and in Marbletown," Pedersen said. "As I was working away at my hobby I stumbled on an old document concerning the library. I thought people would be interested so I had it copied."

The old deed was drawn up by Lewis Hasbrouck, a forerunner of many of the Hasbroucks still living in the neighborhood. It states that "an assembly of subscribers for instituting a library in the Town of Marbletown at the house of Sarah Tack agreeable to law for that end elected" the following officers as trustees:

Moses Cantine Jr., John Lounsbury, Joseph Hasbrouck, Lewis Hasbrouck, Henry Brodhead, Christopher Snyder and James I. Hasbrouck.

The library group were to be known as "Societas Consociata" (roughly United Society), it is stated in the deed found by Pedersen. This was recorded on September 11, 1805, by the presiding clerk, Christopher Tappan.

Earns Captain Rank

Captain Earl W. Place, son of Mrs. Elsie Place of 207 Main Street, New Paltz, was graduated Aug. 5 from the Air University's Squadron Officer School, Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Captain Place was selected for the special professional officer training in recognition of his potential as a leader in the aerospace force.

The captain, a graduate of New Paltz Central High School, attended the University of Maryland European Division at Fontainebleau, France, during his off-duty hours. He was commissioned in 1960 through the aviation cadet program. His wife, Anne, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Dambacher of Walnut Grove, Calif.

Esopus Hears Expansion Need For New Election Districts

A wide variety of subjects, ranging from highway matters to elections and local problems, were on the agenda of Esopus Town Board, held during the past week at the Town Hall, Port Ewen.

The board voted to purchase a 1,700 foot strip of land, 20 feet wide, on the south side of Clay Road, Port Ewen, for the purpose of widening the road. The Clay Road area, since the end of World War II, has been the fastest growing area in the township and the highway is one of the main roads leading to the Port Ewen School. The land will be acquired from the estate of Harold Taylor at a total cost of $2,500.

Clay Road is narrowest at the point where the land is to be acquired. In the board's opinion it was felt that the purchase was a prudent one in view of the fact that the entire 1,700 foot strip could be acquired through one purchase. The road widening project, when it is undertaken, will be accomplished under the State's Town Highway Improvement Program under which 20 per cent of the cost will be provided by state funds.

At the request of Town Highway Superintendent Paul Mercier, the board authorized Mercier to prepare specifications and advertise for bids on a new heavy duty snow removal vehicle. The town's oldest snowplowing trucks were acquired in 1940 and 1945 and repair parts for them are becoming increasingly more difficult to obtain. The new vehicle would replace one of the older ones.

The board discussed at some length a recommendation by the County Board of Elections on suggested changes in the town's election districts. The proposed changes, if they should be put into effect, are based on new requirements of the Election Law, which sets up requirements of two voting machines in an election district where there are more than 600 voters and the establishment of additional districts where more than 900 are registered in an existing district.

If the recommendations should be put into effect, which in no event would take place before 1967, it would mean that District 1, Port Ewen, and District 4, Rifton, would each require two voting machines, and that District 2, Port Ewen and District 3, Esopus, would each be split into new voting districts of two districts for each existing one. District 5, Connelly, would remain unchanged. Action on the recommendations was tabled until the September meeting to permit check for additional information.

The submitted list of the democratic inspectors of election for the current year was approved.

The approved inspectors were: Mrs. Elinor Fitzgerald and Mrs. Mary Zoda, District 1; Mrs. Drusilla Harris and Mrs. Wipfred Neher, District 2; Mrs. Marie Barger and Mrs. Augusta Hoskins, District 3; Mrs. Mary DiBeneditto and Mrs. Mary Kirk, District 4; and Mrs. Irene Courtney and Mrs. Margaret Radel, District 5. The list of Republican inspectors of election had been approved at the July meeting.

Justice of the Peace Allan S. Dargie reported that a number of violators of the town's auto junkyard ordinance had been served with copies of the town's newly strengthened ordinance and that discussions had been held with other violators on getting rid of the "junkers" on their property. It was reported that in at least two instances, compliance has already been made with the ordinance by former violators.

On another long standing item of controversy in the Town of Esopus, the manure disposal operation of an automated chicken farm near St. Remy, it was announced that an inspection of the chicken farm premises had recently been made jointly by Dr. Vernon Link, Ulster County health commissioner, Harry F. Edinger, director of Environmental Sanitation for Ulster County, and John J. Schick, attorney for a group of residents of the adjacent housing development.

A meeting of the Town Board was set up for Tuesday, Aug. 30, with Edinger and Christos Larios, of the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios, Kingston, to discuss the results of the comprehensive sewerage study of the Town of Esopus. The study was recently made by Brinnier and Larios for the town under a $32,500 grant from the State Department of Health. The results of the study have not, as yet, been released by the state.

To Discuss Barges
Supervisor Roger W. Mahie announced that he had a meeting scheduled with Fred C. Kaune, investigator for the Security and Law Enforcement Division of the Army Corps of Engineers, on the question of old barge disposal along the shores of Rondout Creek, the northern boundary of the township. Kaune is now permanently stationed at Kingston by the Army Engineers.

The 1966 special franchise assessments on public utility properties in the township was received from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment. The assessment figures on the properties of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York Telephone Company and Kingston Cablevision in the Town of Esopus total $240,857, an increase of $8,851 over 1965.

A letter was received from Henry Hummel of Swartekill Road in the southern part of the township, asking the widening and resurfacing of the entire length of Swartekill Road. It was pointed out that one mile of this road had been widened and resurfaced during 1964 and 1965, that a knoll in the road had been removed this year, and that the remaining two miles of the road were scheduled for widening and resurfacing in the years ahead as part of the State's Town Highway Improvement Program.

DeVall H. Dunbar, building inspector, reported the issuance of six building permits during July with a total valuation of the work undertaken of $47,840. The permits covered three houses, one garage, one shed and one addition to an existing house. Harry Mains, town fire marshal reported on 14 fire inspection trips made during June and July in various sections of the township. The report of the Port Ewen Board of Water Commissioners disclosed that the average daily usage of the system during July had been 323,750 gallons, nearly double the average usage before the Hudson River was used as the water source of supply.

BERRY'S WORLD

"On nice days like this, I always spend some of my lunch hour in the park with the poor office workers!"

Darwin's Evolution Theory Creating Furor in Arkansas

By BILL SIMMONS
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—One day when Susan Epperson, an attractive young biology teacher, stepped into a public school classroom, she says she lost part of her freedom of speech.

She wants it back.

As a result, she has become the vanguard of the Arkansas Education Association's legal assault on the state's 38-year-old law banning the teaching of Darwin's theory of evolution—one of the nation's last three "monkey laws."

Time to Change
"We just decided it was time for the law to go," says Forrest Rozzell, head of the association. "It is an unwarranted affront to the ability and integrity of teachers."

Mrs. Epperson, 24, completing her third year on the faculty at Little Rock Central High School, became the association's champion in the courtroom this year.

She filed a suit to declare the law unconstitutional. And she won Round 1.

Murray Red, a Chancery Court judge, one step below the Arkansas Supreme Court, held in May that the law must go because it tends to restrain the quest for knowledge by banning a theory that poses no hazard to the community.

The state is appealing to the Arkansas Supreme Court. It has pledged to fight to the U.S. Supreme Court, and Mrs. Epperson's attorneys say they will carry the battle as far as necessary to eliminate the law.

Essentially the questions are: What limits may be placed on freedom of speech in public schools? Is the law a "reasonable" exercise of the people's rights to regulate public schools?

Faibus For, Rocky Against
Outgoing Gov. Orval E. Faibus likes the law as a means of keeping "way out" teachers in line. Republican gubernatorial candidate Winthrop Rockefeller sides with the teachers' association.

Baptist ministers, in convention resolutions, have pointedly affirmed their faith in the Bible story of creation. Presbyterians, no less faithful to the Bible story, nevertheless called for an end to the law.

The U.S. Supreme Court has dealt with innumerable cases involving specific restraints on freedom of speech but it has not established a broadly applicable definition of legally reasonable restraints.

"The court has held that such a definition is not possible in any specific, precise terms," said Eugene Warren, attorney for the teachers' association.

But lawyers on both sides of the issue believe this case hits close to the center of the problem of defining a reasonable restraint—the area where the legal waters are murky.

In his decision, Reed said the freedom to teach and freedom to learn must be unrestrained except when they involve a doctrine hazardous to a community.

Not Dangerous
He decided that the evolution theory was not so dangerous.

The freedom-of-speech question rests on the first amendment, which prevents Congress from "abridging the freedom of speech." The Supreme Court has held that this applies as well to the states.

At the same time, the court has made it plain that freedom of speech is neither absolute nor totally unrestrained.

For example, in 1927 the Supreme Court held that "the teaching of what is immoral or inimical to the public welfare may be forbidden by the state, even though taught as a moral or religious duty."

Arkansas Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett argues that the Darwinian theory of evolution—like polygamy—is inimical to the public welfare.

"Will our children be 'free' to choose their religion after their minds have been warped by antireligious propaganda, or will they be forever captives of the Darwin theory, foisted upon them in their youth?" he asks.

Bennett emphasized that some restraints on freedom of speech have been held legal—including the Hatch Act, which forbids federal employees from active participation in partisan politics.

Similarly, he said, Mrs. Epperson is subject to restraint by the evolution law because she was a state employee, hired by a state subdivision—the Little Rock School Board—and paid with state funds.

Mrs. Epperson's personal view is that a reasonable restraint would not conflict with academic freedom.

Face $500 Fine

The language of the Arkansas anti-evolution law made it illegal to teach or use a textbook that taught that man developed from a lower order of animals. The penalty was a fine up to $500 and dismissal from the teaching post.

The Arkansas Education Association contends that a strict interpretation of the law would clear the classrooms of encyclopedias, most biology textbooks and even dictionaries.

The legislature had considered an anti-evolution law in 1927.

"Monkey business," lawmakers snorted and refused to adopt it.

Then the Rev. Ben Bogard, a Baptist minister, founded the American Anti-Evolution Association, and petitions signed by 19,000 voters put the issue on the 1928 general election ballot.

On Nov. 6, 1928, Arkansas adopted the law by a vote of 108,991 to 63,406.

It went on the books then—largely to be ignored—and apparently no one has ever been convicted under it.

Resnick Pleased On Inclusion of Pet Protection

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick said today that he was very pleased that the House-Senate Joint Committee on the Pet Protection Act of 1966 had included humane treatment of animals in laboratories as well as by dealers in its bill.

The New York congressman, who introduced the original bill in the House following an incident in which a stolen pet was traced to his 28th Congressional District, had served on the joint committee and was given the honor of reporting the joint bill to the House last week.

In addition to cats and dogs, the bill will cover smaller animals used in research—rabbits, guinea pigs, and monkeys.

"This bill will not hamper or affect in any way research by legitimate medical and drug laboratories in this country. It will simply provide safeguards against household pets being stolen for profit by animal dealers, and provide humane treatments of animals used in laboratories," the congressman said.

Killed in Viet After Less Than Month's Service

NORTHVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Army Maj. Kent E. Gandy of this Fulton County community, who had been in South Viet Nam less than a month, has been killed in a helicopter crash.

The Defense Department reported Gandy's death Tuesday and said he was the pilot of a medical evacuation helicopter, which crashed Saturday.

Gandy, 34, was a graduate of St. Lawrence University and had enlisted 12 years ago, a family spokesman said.

He was born in Stamford, Conn., and attended Northwood Boys School in Lake Placid, N. Y.

He had just moved his family to Northville before departing for the Southeast Asian nation. Survivors include his widow, Jeanne, two sons and two daughters.

The Gandy address was listed as care of William Yates, 3 Ridge St.

No Sanctuary for Civilians

Guerrilla Warfare Taking Toll of Lives Every Day

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—There are no sanctuaries in South Viet Nam for unarmed civilians.

Almost daily, guerrilla warfare takes its toll of civilian lives. Civilians are not even safe in the streets of Saigon.

Run Into Thousands
There are no statistics on civilian deaths, but they run into the thousands. More are likely to die.

Incidents last week, including the bombing of a Mekong River delta village by U.S. Air Force jets with the death of 26 villagers and injury to another 124, emphasize the plight of the innocent civilian caught between the Viet Cong and allied forces.

There have been other such bombings in which civilians were killed, unnoticed or unknown to the public. As one

Vietnamese officer put it: "It happens all the time."

Last September, U.S. jets dropped four bombs in the hamlet of Gia Linh in the southern portion of the demilitarized zone, and Vietnamese policemen reported that 20 persons were killed and 10 others wounded. Later, a military spokesman said the bombings were apparently the result of pilots incorrectly identifying their target.

The killing of civilians results from the way the war is conducted, the selection of weapons.

Allied forces sometimes appear to be less selective than the Viet Cong. The allies have airpower and artillery, while the Viet Cong have none.

Whereas the Viet Cong might select for assassination one or two key leaders of a government-controlled village, South Vietnamese troops might call an air strike on a village to cut down a Viet Cong platoon or two—30 to 60 men.

Aug. 9 Bombing Example
The bombing Aug. 9 of the delta village is an example.

The attack was ordered against the village of Truong Thanh by Lt. Col. Le Cong Thuong, chief of Phung Dinh province. It had been reported that 50 Viet Cong were in and around the village.

Col. Thuong called for an air strike. His request was relayed to American forces and sent to divisional Vietnamese and corps military levels for approvals, a procedure which must be followed. It was okayed.

The air strike posed the questions: Why so much firepower? Why didn't a company of South Vietnamese ground troops—perhaps 150 men—surround the 50 Viet Cong?

In some cases, civilians killed in military operations are simply listed as Viet Cong.

Some Caught in Strike

Other civilians have been caught in the middle of civil strife, such as at Da Nang last May when rebel Buddhist troops fought government troops in the streets. Many civilians were casualties, but there was no firm figure.

On the military side, within 48 hours of the bombing of Truong Thanh village last week, American jets mistakenly swooped down on the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Point Welcome in the South China Sea and attacked it, apparently in the belief it was a North Vietnamese torpedo boat. Two of the 13 men aboard, including the captain, were killed. All of the other 11 were

Appoint Utah Dean

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Dr. Keith Reemtsma of Tulane Medical School at New Orleans, La., has been appointed professor and head of the department of surgery at the University of Utah College of Medicine.

Civilians also face the perils of bombs accidentally released or a crippled airplane crashing into their towns.

On July 1, eight Vietnamese civilians—seven of them school children—were killed and 52 persons wounded when U.S. Air Force planes jettisoned their unused explosives.

Following normal practices, the jets moved in to jettison their ordnance in a section of the Dong Nai River north of Bien Hoa. As the pilot of the first plane released his second canister, he felt it hold for about a second, then fall away. One canister containing anti-personnel ordnance hit a two-room private elementary schoolhouse.

Cites Wire Tapping Congressman Requests Probe Of Donahue Case

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick said today that he will ask the House Judiciary Committee to investigate whether the New York State Police violated Trooper John Donahue's civil rights in placing wire taps on his personal home telephone without court authority.

The congressman's comments followed a meeting in his Poughkeepsie District Office with James J. White, former FBI agent, who is heading the Fund for Justice for John Donahue.

White, who presented the facts in the former trooper's case, also served in the U. S. State Department on the President's Council for Voluntary Foreign Aid.

"According to the facts presented by Mr. White," Resnick said, "the only thing Trooper Donahue, who was president of the New York State Police Benevolent Association at the time, tried to do was to have a promotion system based on merit used for New York State police promotions. The Federal Government and virtually all municipal and state governments work on the premise that a man should be promoted on the basis of merit and not on political connections."

"I am disturbed by many aspects of this affair. But the two most disturbing are that one, Trooper Donahue was fired after being tried in a secret, closed departmental hearing where the procedures and rules were imposed by a high-ranking official of the New York State Police Department. Second, and almost as bad, is that the New York State Police Department tapped Trooper Donahue's personal home telephone without court orders and on their own initiative."

"As the State of New York seems to have no check or controls on Supt. of Police Arthur Cornelius, there is no watchdog or legislative committee, and Gov. Rockefeller has refused to do anything about this—in view of the facts presented to me today. I am asking the House Judiciary Committee to give this man his day in court, a chance to face his accusers."

"I am asking for an open hearing on whether this man's civil liberties were violated by the New York State Police in placing wire taps on his home telephone without court authority. I will present full particulars in this matter in a speech that I will make on the floor of the House next week."

"By the service record he has compiled, Trooper Donahue has proven himself to be an outstanding and courageous police officer. The fight that he is waging is not only for the rights of all his fellow police officers but for all Americans. When one individual's constitutional rights are taken away, the rights of all Americans are diminished."

Stratton Requests Delay of Approval Of Medicaid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Health, Education and Welfare Department had before it today a request from an Upstate New York congressman to delay approval of the state's controversial Medicaid program.

Rep. Samuel Stratton, an Amsterdam Democrat, told the House Tuesday that he had urged approval be withheld, pending a study by members of the state's congressional delegation of recent cost estimates.

Check Costs
He asked John W. Gardner, secretary of the department, to provide the state's congressmen with details of a $1.4 billion annual cost estimate that department officials had given the House Ways and Means Committee.

That figure, he said, far exceeds the estimate presented to New York congressmen by Gov. Rockefeller and department officials last May.

The Medicaid program provides for payment of medical bills for those deemed needy from federal, state and local funds, under a federal enabling law.

If Gardner were to approve the state's application for federal funds, Stratton said, it would amount to "a moral commitment by the federal government to supply whatever federal funds the state plan required."

Such a commitment would be dangerous, Stratton said, "because every indication is that, in view of the rising costs of the war in Viet Nam, Congress would never approve any figures so far out of line with our original intention."

Stratton added that the state law was far broader both in coverage and cost than that specified in the enabling act, called Title 19 of the Social Security law.

The New York program, he said, is "clearly unreasonable and excessive in character, and should never be approved or endorsed by the department."

to call witnesses in its investigation of protests against the American role in Viet Nam.

And because it cuts across the most delicate kind of ground—the separation of government powers, in this case the separation of the powers of the courts nothing will come of it.

Probes Make Headlines
Between the two world wars congressional investigations made headlines with inquiries into the Teapot Dome scandal, munitions, public lands. This was in the realm of business.

After the war much of the investigating took a more personal turn. This was particularly true of investigations by the Committee on Un-American Activities.

The committee was first set up in 1938 on a year-by-year basis, became permanent with congressional action in 1945 and 1946. It could investigate practically anything from communism and the German-American Bund to atheism. It often was accused of acting as prosecuting attorney and jury, rolled into one.

Its tactics, like those of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, the Wisconsin Republican who headed a Senate subcommittee, were under attack for years. Some of the complaints the committee were that it exceeded its authority, that it was more interested in exposure than investigation, that it was trying to stifle free speech.

Cite Ruling
But in 1957 the Supreme Court ruled: A witness before a committee has a perfect right under the protection of the U. S. Constitution's fifth amendment against self-incrimination to refuse to answer a question which might incriminate him, but—

"The protections of the first amendment (free speech) do not afford a witness the right to resist inquiry in all circumstances. The critical element is the existence of, and the weight to be ascribed to, the interest of the Congress in demanding disclosure from an unwilling witness."

That didn't leave a witness much room.
In this case the House Committee on Un-American Activities, investigating activities against U. S. policies in Viet Nam, has subpoenaed 13 witnesses. Two of them got the American Civil Liberties Union to file suit to block the committee.

Are Antagonistic
ACLU said the witnesses "have all been identified with diverse views antagonistic to the present administration's military policies."

"Their being called suggests an overall plan to discredit the peace movement and foreign policy dissent."

The ACLU set out to get a three-judge federal court to decide whether the action by which Congress created the House committee—that is, the authority given it—was constitutional at all.

To do that, because time was short, ACLU first had to ask and convince a federal judge—in this case Howard F. Corcoran—to issue an injunction to forbid the committee to meet until the three-judge panel could consider the constitutional question. He issued the injunction Monday.

Scores Interference
There was an uproar from Congress—this was interference by the courts in the business of Congress. House members cried. A special three-judge panel met Monday—the panel included Corcoran—and wiped out the injunction, letting the committee meet, which it said it would have done anyway, defying the court.

Now the other three-judge panel is still to meet but the answer seems pretty certain to be this: the judges won't tell the committee it can't call witnesses. The witnesses at the committee hearings would have to be convicted of contempt for refusing to answer before they could appeal on whether they should have had to answer at all.

Dear Abby . . .

Army Son Should See Legal Officer

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My son, who just turned 21, recently came home from two years in Germany with the army. He had some pictures of a 17-year-old German girl. He thought she was "pretty." (I thought she was fat.) Well, soon after he got home he got this letter from her written in German, which nobody around here can read, so how was he to know she was telling him she was P.G.?

He didn't find out until yesterday when he got a letter from her which she had a friend write in English. What is he supposed to do about this? He said they were close, but not THAT close. Please help me, I have no husband.

SOLDIER'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your son is still in the army, he should talk to the legal officer in his outfit. If he can prove that he wasn't THAT close, or that others were equally "close," he could be absolved of all responsibility for the girl's condition.

But if he IS responsible, the laws are the same over there as they are here, and he may have to support the child. If your son is out of the army, he will need a civilian lawyer. Preferably one who is versed in international law.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think parents should accept collect calls from their children who work in other states and can well afford to pay for their own calls? These children are too lazy to write letters so they call us collect because they know we love to hear from them. It is really a hardship on us to pay for all their calls. We would like your advice.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Remember the old days, when you "trained" your children? Well, now they're training you! Shift gears, back up, and start training them again. When the telephone operators ask if you will accept the charges, say, "No!"

DEAR ABBY: I have one daughter-in-law who insists on calling me "grandma." Now I do not object to having my grandchildren call me "grandma," but I certainly do not care to be called "grandma" by a woman who could not possibly be a granddaughter of mine.

If she doesn't wish to call me "mom" or "mother" as my other daughters-in-law call me, she may call me by my first name, or anything else that she likes. But I do wish she would quit that "grandma" business. How do I make this plain to her? FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: How about simply telling her? She probably isn't aware that you are furious.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANDY IN CHEYENNE: Yes, a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, but it can make a man look awfully foolish if he's not in the poultry business.

Troubled! Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cinderella Girl In 'Peyton' Cast, 'Allison' Leaving

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Leigh Taylor-Young, television's Cinderella girl of the 1966-67 season, has been an official member of ABC's "Peyton Place" cast for only six days — and already they have put her in a hospital gown and got her practicing operating a wheelchair.

That's the way things are in "Peyton Place," where life is a twice-a-week cycle of illness, emotional crisis, birth and sometimes death.

Shows Mature Calm

Miss Taylor-Young, 21, despite some anxiety about the confusion around her, appears to be handling her sudden exposure to limelight with mature calm.

A tall slender beauty with long, straight hair the color of blonde mahogany, and large green eyes in a heart-shaped face, this Birmingham, Mich., girl has been chosen to fill the spot — but not the character — vacated by Mia Farrow.

There is a theory, widely advanced by television's educated second-guessers, that one of the bases of "Peyton Place's" popularity has been curiosity about the identity of the young men who would sweep Allison Mackenzie off her feet.

Confusion between the identity of Mia Farrow and Allison Mackenzie settled that question some time ago. Miss Farrow, now Mrs. Frank Sinatra, will be written out in a couple of weeks and Miss Taylor-Young will be the next maiden to pique viewers' curiosity.

Frowns on Comparisons
Producer Paul Monash frowns on comparisons between the two girls, but there is undoubtedly similarity, including a fawn-like shyness.

Leigh's British-type hyphenated name is her own idea and combines her real family name, Taylor, with that of her stepfather who encouraged her theatrical ambitions.

After Birmingham High School, she attended Northwestern University for a time, quitting to go to New York and study with famed acting teacher Sandy Meisner. This, plus determined job-hunting, led to a small part in the short-lived "Three Bags Full" followed by a sort of vacation trip to Palm Springs.

"My agent thought it would be good after a bout with pneumonia — and that I might meet some important people," she said.

Well-Kept Secret
She did: Paul Monash, who was looking for a new girl in town. Leigh tested for the role and was signed in June — a well-kept secret.

She will be introduced into the series sometime in late September or early October. All "Peyton Place" story lines are guarded like allied invasion plans, but she will start out with only a first name — "Rachel" — and, to quote Monash, "enter in a dramatic fashion."

"She is more primitive than innocent," he said, mysteriously. "She comes from a deprived and peculiar environment."

Miss Taylor-Young was spending her lunch hour on the deserted set, sitting in the wheel chair and practicing turns, nibbling on a chicken salad sandwich and bleakly studying a script.

"I've never done anything like this — and besides learning about cameras and all the rest, including having three different directors, I've got to learn 16 pages of script," she fretted.

"It's a whole new technique," she said. "It is difficult to sustain a mood or emotion when all these mechanical things are going on around."

Miss Taylor-Young obviously has plucked one of the season's acting plums. But all the artificial excitement surrounding the birth of a television star, the endless interviews and picture taking, seem to be swirling around without touching her.

"Sixteen pages!" she groaned and gave the wheel chair another spin.

Swedish Student Journalist Reports Chinese Are Content

EDITOR'S NOTE: Per Kronvall, 19, a Swedish student and budding journalist, visited a Chinese home in Peking during a recently concluded visit to Communist China and in the following story, written for The Associated Press, he reports on the experience.

By PER KRONVALL
Written For The Associated Press

In Peking I visited the family of a student. The father worked in a steel mill outside the city. He was a skilled worker and earned 90 yuan—almost $40—a month, about 20 yuan a month more than the average worker.

His rent, for a two-room ground-floor apartment in a privately owned house, was seven yuan a month. The father, his wife and another son all worked and had lunches and dinners at their places of employment, with the father and the son paying 16 yuan a month each and the mother 15. The girl of the family, 15 years old, attended school, where she had free meals. Bus fares totaled 20 yuan a month for the family.

I asked the man of the house through his English-studying son, what he thought of his life.

Enough to Eat

"Everything is good," he replied. "I lead a happy life. I support my family. We have enough to eat every day."

"What did you do before the liberation?" I asked.

"My father worked as a boy, and I also tried to be a servant, but I didn't go so well. The family that my father and I worked for was very kind, even though they were imperialists. They got me a job as a tram conductor. My family was not starving, as many others were. Then the war came, and the Japanese occupied China. Then times became even more difficult, and many people starved to death. It was during the Japanese occupation that I started to work in the steel industry."

"Do you have any hobbies?" I asked.

"Not really," he replied. "In the summer I often sit and play cards with my neighbors. We often go to the movies together. Then, of course, the production teams make a lot of arrangements."

"Like what?" I asked.

"It's very good. They make arrangements to have my hair cut in the factory. They also arrange for me to go to a bathhouse. And you don't have to pay anything."

Son Is Apprentice

Then I turned to the son, who was 18 years old and worked in his father's trade. Because he was just learning he received only 30 yuan a month.

"What are your future plans?" I asked.

"I want to be a skilled worker like my father, and perhaps I will be chosen for a responsible position in the factory."

"Will you get any extra money for this kind of job?" I asked.

"No, why should I? It is a privilege to work as a leader."

"Do all the people think that it is good to do much extra work and get no reward?" I asked.

"Yes. There are some who say no, but it is only because they read too little of the works of Mao Tse-tung."

While I was talking to the young man, the father started to read his pocket edition of Mao's works. I don't know if this act was to show me his admiration for Mao or what.

I asked the mother, who was a nurse in one of the Peking hospitals, about the prices of consumer goods. She let me know that food products like rice, tea and meat were only sold to those who had food coupons. One also needed coupons to buy cotton goods. Vegetables were quite inexpensive. A kilo of rice—2.2 pounds—cost 20 jin or 10 cents. Clothes were costly. A pair of simple blue pants cost 4.60 yuan. A summer shirt cost just as much. Winter clothes were even more expensive. And such things as nylon shirts cost 17 yuan, about one-fifth of the average monthly salary. But in China, she told me, salaries never went up; prices came down. I asked if there was any product that had gone up in price. The only price increase she mentioned was bread.

"What kind of social benefits do you have?" I asked.

Note Social Benefits

"Well," the father responded. "I and my second son have full medical aid insurance; so does my wife, because we all work. But my two other children who are still studying, get only 50 per cent protection. But if one must undergo an expensive operation the union helps him so that one only needs to pay about 15 yuan. For example, when our neighbor's boy fell and broke two of his side teeth, he had to go to the dentist many times. His parents paid about nine yuan. Before the liberation the poor working people never could afford to go to dentists or doctors."

The girl wore a red scarf around her neck which I could tell made her a member of the Pioneers (a Communist youth organization). She told me about different activities she had. Before, she used to go out during vacation to work in state farms but now she had a lot of different meetings to attend.

"What kind of meetings?" I asked.

"We sit and listen to how our instructors tell about our country's revolutionary history. And we also read Mao Tse-tung's works," she said proudly.

"Think of it," the father said. "Thanks to the revolution and Chairman Mao, my children have a future. We are happy and never had it so good. I even have a bicycle, although I don't really need one. If someone would have told me that my life would be so pleasant before the liberation, I would have laughed."

Says Weighted-Voting Fails to Meet Edict

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—A State Supreme Court judge says a weighted-voting plan designed to reapportion the Board does not meet the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" guideline.

Justice Michael Sweeney rejected the plan Tuesday as "constitutionally defective" and ordered the board to devise a new plan by Sept. 1.

The nation's highest court ordered state legislatures in 1964 to realize themselves on the pattern of "one man, one vote," and lower courts have held that local governing bodies also were to comply.

The county reapportionment action was brought by the Saratogian, a daily afternoon newspaper, and its editor, Fred G. Eaton.

Lindbloom Aides Start Drive for 6,000 Signatures

Hundreds of campaign workers started ringing doorbells August 10 in a drive to obtain 6,000 signatures on petitions to support Eric Lindbloom, independent peace candidate for Congress in the 28th District.

According to the election law of New York State, for a candidate to be eligible to be listed on the ballot, he must have petitions signed by at least 3,000 qualified voters registered in this district in the last general election. Filing deadline for petitions is Sept. 20.

"Judging by the overwhelming response to date," states Gary Marx, Dutchess County Petitions' co-chairman, "we should easily surpass our goal and in doing so, show that our district's voters are not just going to sit by passively letting this illegal war in Viet Nam go on." Co-chairing the petitions campaign from Columbia County are Janus Lawrence and Fran Smith, from Dutchess County are Jeffrey Katz and Gary Marx, and from Ulster County are Louis Crepet, Helen Fein and David Krikun. Area Captains include Hugh Campbell, Dr. Steven Dobo, David Eckline, Mrs. Melvin Nicholson, J. Bartlett Page and Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie Rohr.

Memories of a Bridge Cruise

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim and his wife Judy are conducting a bridge cruise to Hawaii this October. His father is reminded that just before Jim was born the older Jacobys assisted the Culbertsons in running a similar cruise to Bermuda. Jim was along most unofficially.

Oswald: Here is a hand bid by the Culbertsons against a Bermuda team in a match we played while spending a few days in Bermuda.

Jim: "The seven spade contract is certainly a good one to reach. With 11 high card points opposite 16 I doubt if many modern pairs would get past six. Will you explain the Culbertson bidding?"

Oswald: "Delighted. Ely had last invented the Culbertson 4-5 no-trump. In this convention the four no-trump bid shows either three aces or two aces and a king of a bid suit. The five no-trump response shows either two aces or one ace and the kings of all bid suits. Thus when North bid five no-trump South was looking at three aces of his own and knew that North had to be showing the other ace and the two important kings. It was a problem for him to go right to the grand slam after receiving that information."

Jim: "It would be impossible to get that information across by either regular or Roman Blackwood. What went wrong with this Culbertson convention?"

Oswald: "It worked perfectly on this hand. In fact the Bermuda pair who held the North South cards against us did not even get past four spades so we made a real pick-up on this hand. Unfortunately the convention failed to achieve popularity because of the restrictions. In Blackwood you just ask for information. In Ely's convention you give it also."

Doing The Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

AS A HOUSE PARTY HOSTESS ARE YOU A SUCCESS?

Last week the prospective house party guests had a chance to check their knowledge. This time it's the host and hostess's turn.

1. Specific travel directions such as routes or time tables should be included in the invitation to a house party. True—False—

2. The hostess should include a list of activities planned in her invitation. True—False—

3. One may invite overnight guests only if one has a guest room. True—False—

4. To insure a successful weekend, the hostess must have activities planned for every moment. True—False—

5. A house party hostess does not include neighbors in the activities planned for guests. True—False—

The good hostess always asks her guests what they would like to do. True—False—

7. If it is necessary to make reservations for tennis courts, a table at the club, etc., the host should make them before consulting his guests. True—False—

8. A weekend hostess should have equipment available to loan guests for special activities. True—False—

Are you prepared to invite house guests for next weekend? Check the answers and see.

1. True. It's easy for one who knows the way, but a stranger can waste hours of his weekend looking for a remote cottage.

2. True. How else will the guests know how to plan their wardrobe?

3. False. Dens with convertible sofas, or children's rooms given a thorough clean-up, make perfectly satisfactory guest rooms. So do screened porches.

4. False. Even enthusiastic guests need a breather to sit down and do nothing occasionally.

5. False. Part of the fun is to introduce your friends from other localities to your neighbors.

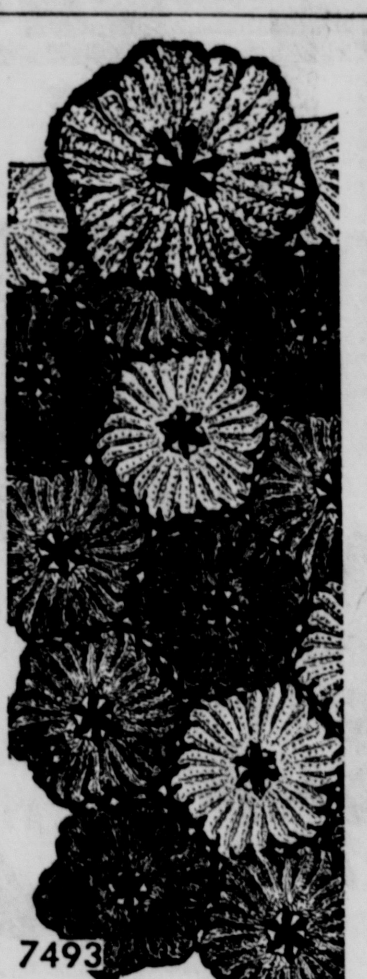

6. False. Most people prefer to have their activities planned, especially when they may not know what activities there are to offer.

7. True. Reservations can always be cancelled, but if the host delays too long, they often can't be made.

8. True. Guests can't be expected to purchase such items as fishing equipment or foul weather gear for a single weekend.

The correct marking of linens and the amounts a bride-to-be will need in furnishing her future house, are included in the booklet "The Bride's Trousseau." For a copy, send a dime and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

NFMC President Receives Honorary Doctor Of Letters Degree; Resides in Florida

Mrs. Clifton J. Muir of Coral Gables, Fla., president of the National Federation of Music Clubs—largest musical organization of its kind in the world—was awarded the honorary Doctor of Letters degree from Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky., at commencement ceremonies on Thursday evening, Aug. 4.

Dr. Robert Martin, president of the university, awarded the degree in recognition of Mrs. Muir as "a prominent leader in the arts, defender of excellence, creator of goals . . . guide to youth in the development of talent . . . musician extraordinary" . . . and for the encouragement and interest she has given to Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp over many years. Dr. Andrew J. Bookman, chairman of the university's Department of Music, presented Mrs. Muir to Dr. Martin as "an honorary colleague in our goal of developing a sound education for students of the Arts," and also hooded her.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in honor of Mrs. Muir and attended both by faculty members and friends of Mrs. Muir from Kentucky and surrounding states.

At this 59th Summer Commencement, Mrs. Muir and former Governor Earle B. Clements received the first honorary doctorates to be given since Eastern Kentucky State College became Eastern Kentucky University in July of this year. They are also the 19th and 20th recipients since then-Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was given the first honorary degree in 1961.

Mrs. Muir, a national personage in the world of music, is on the Advisory Committee on the Arts for the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts (Washington, D. C.), First Vice President of the National Music Council, Board Member and Fourth Vice President of the Stephen Foster Memorial Corporation, and National Foundation Board Member of Sigma Alpha Iota Music Fraternity. She holds an honorary Doctor of Music degree from Chicago's American Conservatory.

She was elected to the Presidency of the National Federation of Music Clubs in 1963. This organization, founded in 1898, is dedicated to aiding and encouraging musical education and developing and maintaining high musical standards throughout America. NFMC, which sponsors annually National Music Week, the Parade of American Music, the Crusade for Strings, and the Hymn of the Month, has Headquarters located at 600 South Michigan Avenue in Chicago, Illinois.

Mrs. Muir, an accomplished organist and pianist, received both Bachelor's and Master's degrees in voice from the American Conservatory, followed by extensive concertizing and solo appearances. She served as a member of Florida's Recreation Committee for four years, member of the Advisory Board of the Miami Youth Symphony Orchestra and the International and American Music Festivals of the University of Miami, member of Miami's Royal Poinciana Festival Committee and named "Lady" of the Festival in 1956, and President of the Florida Federation of Music Clubs. She is listed in "Who's Who of American Women," "Who's Who in the South and Southwest," and "Who's Who in the National Federation of Music Clubs."

Eastern Kentucky University was founded in 1906 by act of the State Legislature of Kentucky; and a predecessor on the Richmond Campus, Central University, was founded in 1874. This educational institution of higher education has been the scene of an expansion program, with the construction phase totaling around $30 million since 1960.

The Music Department gives three undergraduate degrees in music and the Master of Music degree. Currently, there are 120 music majors, 19 faculty members, and a Resident String Quartet.

In 1966, its 31st year, the Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp showed a significant increase with 170 in attendance. Nick Koenigstein is the Director. The NFMC cooperate with the Camp each summer in giving partial scholarships. James Van Peursem was chairman of the Music Department for 35 years and Director of Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp from its inception until his retirement two years ago.

Blames Framework

OTTAWA (AP) — A failure in construction framework has been blamed for the collapse of a section of a bridge in southwest Ottawa last Wednesday that killed eight workmen and injured 50 others.

In a report Monday night to the Ottawa City Council, Works Director Frank Ayers said the temporary frame for the center of the span "apparently dropped vertically." An inquest and a municipal-province investigation are scheduled.

PICNIC COMMITTEE—Plans were made last night for the annual family picnic of St. Mary's Church, Kingston, scheduled to be held on Sunday, Sept. 4 at 1 p. m. The rain date is Monday, Sept. 5, Labor Day. Serving on the committee are (l-r) Mrs. Gus Parker of the Rosary Society; Tony Bell, Holy Name Society; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. McIntyre, pastor; and Mrs. Paul Houghtaling of the Mothers' Society. The committee discussed the need for additional cash donations, donations of salads, baked beans and cup cakes. This year's gala event will include a miniature bazaar for children, and other attractions. A final committee meeting has been set for Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 7:30 p. m. in St. Mary's School hall. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr).

Capacity House for Opening Performance Of 'West Side Story' in Woodstock

BY DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

"West Side Story," one of our top contemporary musicals in American Theatre opened a two week engagement last night at the Woodstock Playhouse. A first rate cast earned several curtain calls indicating that M. Edgar Rosenblum's production of this popular musical will play to capacity houses through August 28.

It doesn't seem likely that a plot based on violence, gang wars, switch blades and murder would make a palatable stage vehicle. But softened with a Romeo and Juliet type of love, music by Leonard Bernstein (America's version of Toscanini) and sparkling lyrics by Stephen Sondheim the play demands the rapt attention of its audience.

Using an ethnic background, "West Side Story" is a complete capsule of tensions, fights, love songs and dances. Tony and Maria, the lovers, are portrayed by Ed Erickson and Jacqueline Maria, both gifted performers. The two gangs, The Jets and The Sharks, create humor, violence and songs that are extremely entertaining. The rival gangs are led by two superb actors, William Metz and Don Barshay. Two pianos fill the playhouse with Bernstein music while sets by Tim Finneran illustrate the enormous potential of a summer theatre. Scene changes are rapid and smooth.

William M. Craft Accepts Teaching Position in Mass.

William M. Craft, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Marvin Craft, Broad Street, West Hurley, has accepted a teaching assistantship at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass., where he will study for his masters in mathematics.

Craft is a Cum Laude graduate of the State University College at Oswego where he has been teaching at the campus school since graduation. He is a member of Kappa Mu Epsilon, National Mathematics Honor Society.

Although choreography was awkward in spots, the difficult interpretive numbers were extremely well done due to the direction of Myrna Charles and director Harold Baldrige.

William Ade as "Action" and Terry Forman as "Anybody's" add luster to the production while Nila Greco, in the part of Anita, adds beauty and talent to the entire evening.

Rounding out the cast are Cliff Lipson, Michael Scotlin, William Martin, John Lee Krom, William E. Dauphin, John Vaccaro, Free Green, Ralph Santinelli, Terry Forman, Harry Miller, Bob Denning, Gibony Whyte, Lorraine Bowden, Karen Levin, Lora Lee Cliff, Myrna Charles, Hermine Warren, Felice Wilpan, Lynda Benjamin, Nancy Wait, James Berry and Charles C. Welch.

The final Woodstock production will be the longest running musical in history, "The Fantasticks." It will open on Aug. 30th.

Square Dancing Will Be Featured Here By Lefooters Club

The Lefooters Square Dance Club, three years young and growing by leaps and bounds, is busily engaged in preparing for another Fun Night. This year, because of the tremendous interest in this "new" type of square dancing, the club, working in cooperation with the Kingston Recreation Association, will hold an open house dance for adult couples 18 years and over in municipal auditorium, Broadway, Kingston, on Sept. 10 from 8 p. m. to 11 p. m. They hope the confirmed non-dancers, as well as the timid "well-maybes," will turn out just to see what it's really like.

Square dancing, Western style, is unique in that it is entirely non-competitive and yet demands the utmost in cooperation, coordination, and concentration. It offers a constant challenge, healthful physical exercise, and endless exhilarating pleasure. Square dancing is indeed, "Friendship set to music."

The Lefooters Square Dance Club welcomes non-dancers to visit them on Sept. 10 to see for themselves the fun and fellowship involved and to ask any questions regarding lessons, membership, or anything pertinent to our American heritage, the square dance.

Miss Clooney, 38, and Ferrer, 54, were married in 1952, divorced in 1962 and later remarried.

Miss Clooney's current divorce suit, filed Tuesday in Santa Monica, Calif., says the couple has been separated since last April 14. They have five children, ages 11, 10, 9, 7 and 6.

Don Blair, popular caller from Massachusetts, will explain the origin of Western square dancing and will help club members demonstrate basic and more intricate maneuvers of the dance. Admission is free and refreshments will be served.

FDR Life Topic Of Haviland for Kingston Lions

A purported romance with his wife's social secretary, called one of the great stories of American history, has given a new insight into the life of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

That was emphasized Tuesday by James G. Haviland, director of community relations at Ulster County Community College, who spoke on "Roosevelt's Public and Personal Lives" before the Kingston Lions Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Haviland has spent considerable time doing research on President Roosevelt and presently is completing a book on his first campaign for political office in 1910.

Add New Dimension

"Reports of Roosevelt's romance with Lucy Page Mercer, the daughter of an Army major, have been widely publicized in recent days," Haviland said. "They have given a new dimension to Roosevelt's life and hopefully there will be further historical research into this area to place it into proper perspective."

Haviland said Jonathan Daniels, Roosevelt's former administrative assistant and press secretary, has described the romance as being "a beautiful affection" with "nothing shameful."

The romance apparently began soon after the Roosevelts settled in Washington in 1913 when Roosevelt was named Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Daniel's father, Josephus, in the administration of President Woodrow Wilson. The affair apparently ended in 1918, five months before Roosevelt was nominated as the Democratic candidate for vice president, although the two continued to see each other in later years.

Had Valley Ties

In 1920, Miss Mercer married Winthrop Rutherford, 30 years her senior. Rutherford had ties with the Hudson Valley through his first wife, Alice Morton, the daughter of Levi Morton, vice president of the U. S. under Benjamin Harrison. Morton for years had an estate in Rhinecliff, now the site of the Cardinal Farley Military Academy, Haviland said.

Mrs. Rutherford was present at Warm Springs, Ga., when Roosevelt suffered his fatal stroke in 1945, though for some unexplained reason this was kept secret at the time, the speaker said.

Haviland said Mrs. Rutherford's presence wasn't publicized until 1949, a year after her death, in a book by Grace Tully, Roosevelt's secretary. Westbrook Pegler picked up the story, but the rest of the press at the time ignored it.

Jonathan Daniels in 1954 told of rumors that Roosevelt had been in love with a Roman Catholic, Haviland said, although the Roman Catholic wasn't identified then.

Notes Veiled References

Haviland said scholars have found veiled references to the romance in a letter by Roosevelt's mother and also in one that FDR wrote to his wife, which indicated she had postponed and tried to cancel her regular summer vacation in Campobello.

The speaker also described Roosevelt's first campaign for political office—a successful 1910 race for the State Senate. He said FDR originally had planned to run for assemblyman, where the chance of being elected seemed good, but had to abandon this when the Democratic incumbent, Lewis S. Chanler, declined to run for a higher office.

Finally, Roosevelt agreed to run for state senator in the Dutchess, Putnam, Columbia district, although he was a distinct underdog.

Picked Up Gimmicks

"In this campaign, Roosevelt was not yet an orator," Haviland said. "But he quickly picked up political gimmicks. He remembered to speak a good word for the particular town he was in and also learned quickly to adapt his arguments to his audience. Like a good salesman, he brought up his own candidacy only after establishing a bond between his audience and himself on other matters."

The speaker said Roosevelt started a new trend in campaigning by using the automobile, while his opponent, incumbent State Senator John F. Schlosser, used the traditional means of transportation of the day—the train and horse and buggy.

'Corpse' Drew Crowds

Haviland said one Republican in Southern Dutchess County became so upset at the success Roosevelt was having with his automobile campaign he sent out the report the car had been upset in the Pawling Mountains and Roosevelt had been killed or seriously injured. It soon was proved to be a rumor and, if anything, brought even bigger crowds out to see Roosevelt. Everyone wanted to hear the "corpse."

The speaker, who has B.S. and M.S. degrees from Northwestern University and has done graduate study at Columbia University, was introduced by Herbert Lown, Lions Club Program chairman.

John Burroughs (1837-1921), noted author and naturalist, lies buried on the upper ridge of Memorial Field, in front of a boulder which he called his "Boyhood Rock." His gravesite overlooks the Catskills which he cherished. The field is part of the original farm where Burroughs New England ancestors settled in 1795 and where he was born.

Burroughs taught school as a young man and then went to Washington in the employ of the U. S. Treasury. He was developing during these years as an author whose essays were marked by a delicate feeling, fine observation, honest thought and a simple and natural style.

He later built a house, Riverly, in West Park, and there settled down to celery farming, vineyard keeping and writing. Nearby he built his famous retreat, Slabside. At these places he entertained many prominent people, including Henry Ford, Harvey Firestone and Thomas A. Edison.

At the age of 73 he went to live, in summer, in the weathered old farm house, over the

Suggest Welfare Study, Tax Cut On GOP Platform

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A review of public welfare and a reduction of taxes that deter the economy were suggestion offered GOP platform-makers at a meeting Tuesday of the Republican State Platform Advisory Committee.

Robert S. Leshner, of the Buffalo Area Chamber of Commerce, said, "Welfare programs at all government levels should be revised to decrease the taxpayers' overall burden while still taking adequate care of those deserving assistance."

The chamber representative said there should be a reversal of the apparent abdication of the public welfare field by the legislative and executive branches of government to the professional welfare specialists.

To carry out the suggestion the chamber proposed intensified efforts to obtain a stronger residency law, a return to the voucher system to prevent relief recipients from spending cash given them for goods and services other than necessities, and establishment of a reasonable limit on the amount any family receives in public assistance.

The chamber also proposed "reasonable taxation, forward-looking public improvements and legislative measures that are conducive to profitable commercial and industrial operations" in place of economically deterring tax rates.

Another individual at the one-day hearing, Sen. Thomas F. McGowan, Buffalo Republican, recommended establishment of state aid for local law enforcement similar to state aid to education.

McGowan also proposed intermittent recesses in legislative sessions to permit lawmakers opportunity for greater contact with their constituents.

Sousa Marches Will Highlight Eighth West Point Concert

Stirring John Philip Sousa marches will open and close the eighth concert of "Music Under the Stars," presented by the U.S. Military Academy Band at Trophry Point Amphitheater on Aug. 21 at 8 p. m. The band will be conducted by Lieutenant Colonel William H. Schempf, commanding officer of the band.

This program, in addition to the Sousa Marches, will feature many top tunes from Broadway. Leroy Anderson's famous "Type-writer" "Woodland Sketches" will also be featured. A potpourri of musical Americana would best describe the eighth concert of this summer series.

Wally Cox Divorced

She had testified Cox "publicly embarrassed me by saying that he no longer wanted to be married to me."

Why We Say--

"LITTLE SCAMP"

NOT SLIGHTLY: A small boy who gets into trouble might be referred to as a "little scamp." The scamp though actually means one who is out of the battlefield or not eligible to be in the army. The word came into English through the Old French, "suscamp" and from the Latin as (out of) and campus (the battlefield). Technically anyone who wasn't a soldier was a scamp.

Sarazen, Costello, Lyons Head Crack Woodstock Open Field

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Gene Sarazen, the golf immortal from nearby Germantown, will add glamor to the annual Woodstock Open, top stop on the Northeastern PGA circuit, Friday at Woodstock Country Club.

Sarazen, recent winner of the Northeastern PGA Sectional championship at Columbia Country Club, said he would have to withhold a decision to compete until the last moment, because of possible commitments with his Shell Oil Wonderful World of Golf TV program.

Barring last minute complications, Sarazen said he would be happy to play in the Open. "I'm supposed to be cutting down on my tournament play, but I'm intrigued by the thought of playing at Woodstock Country Club, one of my favorite courses."

Sarazen has made numerous appearances at the village links and has broken par each time. He fired a 5-under-par 65 in his first exhibition at Woodstock.

Top Field Is Assured

The addition of Sarazen, winner of the four major titles in golf, increases fan interest and virtually assures the finest field in the long history of the 27-hole event.

In addition to Sarazen, host pro Jim Hutchins has released a list of entries that includes the following illustrious names: William (Buzzy) Costello, former Wiltwyck Country Club ace, who won the 1965 tournament with a 3-under-par 102 on nines of 25, 25, 32.

Toby Lyons and Denny Lyons, the crack father-son combination from Burning Tree, Conn. The Lyons tied for second place with 104's in last year's event.

Toby Lyons is current leader in the $10,000 hole-in-one event on TV and recently missed the jackpot by 8 inches. His son, Denny, is rated one of the finest amateurs in the east. In the recent Porter Cup Amateur Golf tournament at Niagara Falls he went to the 72nd hole tied for the lead but a disastrous triple-bogey 6 cost him the victory.

Won In Sudden Death

Gene Tomaselli of Newburgh, who defeated Toby Lyons in a sudden death playoff for pro honors in 1965 after a tie at 104.

Armand Farina of Clinton Knolls, who is "Mr. Woodstock Open" with five championships and two seconds. His 98 in 1951 is second only to his brother Jim's tournament record of 97 set on nines of 32-32-33.

Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, seven time New York State Amateur champion and a consistent high finisher at Woodstock. Billows tied for first place at 101 with Bill Waterous and Bill Van Aken in 1960. In the sudden death playoff, Van Aken won on the second extra hole.

Van Aken, winner of the 1966 Townley Memorial with a 6-under par 134 for 36 holes, is at the peak of his game and a strong threat to capture his second title.

Former champions scheduled to return include Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill; Fred Lux, Dutchess (100 in 1961); Claude Young, Winding Brook (100 in 1963) and Alex Sinclair, Mohawk (104 in 1964).

Other veterans of the Northeastern circuit due to play are John Gaucas of Van Schick; Bob Mix, Albany Country Club; Bill McNabb, Tall Timbers; Bill Gressick, Catskill Country Club; Joe Sonday, Red Hook; Frank Stuhler, Antlers, Amsterdam.

Glenn Young, son of Claude Young, and rated one of the bright new names in the Northeastern, has filed his entry.

Frank Misarti, James Murray (Pine Brook); Bob Smith, Wolferts Roost, are other likely entries.

Host pro Jim Hutchins said he had received virtual assurance from Ben Toski of the famed Toski golf family that he would be on hand.

Strong Amateur Contingent

Costello and Denny Lyons head a strong amateur contingent. Dutchess county stars expected are Fred Lux, Jr., Joe Busbee of Wappingers; Sal Molella of Millbrook, and John Flanagan, sports editor of the Poughkeepsie Journal. George Hughes of Twaalfskill will accompany Alex Gerlak and Bill McCullen of Wiltwyck will play with Scotty Robertson.

The guaranteed first prize of $200 is the highest offered in the Northeastern circuit. Top amateur prize is $100 in merchandise.

Record conscious amateurs will have their work cut out. The all-time amateur record in the Open is 89 set by Sig Magofski of Schenectady. He did it with nines of 32-34-33.

In a period of waning golf audiences in the area, the Woodstock Open continues to draw large crowds. One of the largest in recent years is expected Friday.

Tom John Big Pigeon For Campy

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It isn't that Bert Campaneris owns Tommy John exactly, but if there is a latter-day Abraham Lincoln around Tommy would like a word with him.

The state of the Chicago pitcher's serfdom to the slippery Kansas City shortstop reached maddening, slightly ridiculous, proportions Tuesday. Campaneris's single-handedly ruined what could have been a fine job of pitching and accounted for the Athletics' 4-2 victory over the Sox.

Campy scored all the Kansas City runs and had four of its six hits — including three of the five given up by losing-pitcher John in the seven innings he worked.

But, as usual, it was on the baselines that Campaneris really did the damage and got John, reliever Hoyt Wilhelm and the rest of the White Sox muttering to themselves.

He began the game by beating out a single to short and moving to second on a sacrifice. Then Danny Cater walked, and the routine plays ended. Campaneris and Cater pulled a double steal and when Sox third baseman Don Buford muffed the throw trying to nail Campaneris, he scored.

Comes The Wild Pitch

In the third, Campy tripled and John, perhaps worried more about him than the batter, heaved a wild pitch and Campaneris was home again.

He singled in the fifth and John, who did everything but ignore him, attempted to pick him off. The ball bounded all the way down the right-field line and by the time the Sox caught up with it, Campaneris was home again.

By the eighth, John was gone and Wilhelm was facing Campy, but with no more discernible success. The little speedster singled, stole second, went to third on one base on ball and scored on another one.

In other American League games, Baltimore beat Boston 6-4, Detroit took New York 6-3, Minnesota bounced California 8-1 and Washington edged Cleveland 6-5 in 13 innings.

Hikes Lead to 35

Campaneris' two stolen bases increased his league-leading total to 35. John (Blue Moon) Odom got his second victory but needed relief help from Jack Aker, who chalked up his 21st save of the season.

Baltimore won its usual victory with its usual weapon, home runs. Boog Powell's 31st of the season—a three-run shot in the ninth—tied the score and, after Curt Blefary reached base on an error, Bob Johnson hit his first of the year. Earlier, Frank Robinson hit his 37th and number 361 lifetime, tying him with Joe DiMaggio at 15th on the all-time list.

Ray Oyler's two-run triple sparked a three-run eighth inning that got Detroit past the Yankees. Don Wert hit a two-run homer for the Tigers and Tom Tresh, Clete Boyer and Roger Maris connected for New York.

Minnesota also used the home run to excellent advantage in crushing California. Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Don Mincher and Andy Kosco all had a pleasant trot around the bases. Jim Perry allowed the Angels but three hits and one unearned run.

Ken Harrelson smacked a two-run homer with two outs in the 13th accounting for Washington's victory. The Indians had tied the game twice, once on Rocky Colavito's 25th homer.

Mays' 534th Homer Ties Foxx; They Come Harder Now-Willie

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays, on the threshold of becoming the greatest right-handed home run hitter in baseball history, says the long ones don't come as easy as they once did.

Mays tied Jimmy Foxx for second-place on the all-time list with his 534th Tuesday night, helping Gaylord Perry win his 19th game as San Francisco topped St. Louis 3-1.

"I think it's getting harder to hit home runs because of my age," Mays said. "I'm 35, you know. Sometimes I'm not strong enough to swing the bat good."

In spite of his advancing years, Mays' home run output has earned him the National League title in each of the last two years. In fact, the 52 he blasted last year marked his best one-season production ever.

Mays' 534th came leading off the third inning against left-hander Al Jackson. It was Willie's fourth behind Hank Aaron, the 29th this season and left him National League leader.

Hears From Foxx

Foxx, who sent Mays a telegram congratulating him, said "I hope he hits 600."

"I'm happy that another right-hander can prove he can hit."

Elsewhere, first place Pittsburgh blanked New York 3-0 in a game called by rain in the seventh inning. Philadelphia edged Chicago 5-3, Atlanta downed Houston 4-2 and Los Angeles blanked Cincinnati 2-0.

WILLIE MAYS

Mays' historic homer was worth $25, three autographed baseballs and a visit to the Giants' clubhouse to 18-year-old Henry Barez, who caught the ball as it sailed over the 375-foot sign in right-center field.

Hit Good Pitch

"It was a good pitch," said Jackson, who later struck Mays out on a fast ball. "I don't think he was guessing. You don't have to guess to hit a home run."

Pitcher Tommie Sisk was the hero for the Pirates. He held the Mets to a pair of singles, scored one run and drove in another.

His efforts earned Sisk one "Hang in There" and one "Go Get 'Em" in the Pirates' unique award system.

The awards are handed out by The Black Maxes — Pittsburgh's clubhouse cutups, who celebrate every victory with high jinks that would make Olson and Johnson seem refined.

Four straight walks with two out in the eighth inning gave the Phillies their victory over the Cubs.

Tony Gonzalez, who had homered earlier, led off the eighth with a double. After Ferguson Jenkins retired sluggers John Callison and Rich Allen, Bill White was given an intentional walk. Then Clay Dalrymple, Dick Groat and Doug Clemens all drew unintentional walks, forcing in two runs.

Rico Carty scored two runs and Dick Kelley pitched five-hit ball for seven innings as the Braves defeated the Astros. It was Atlanta's seventh victory in the last nine games and Houston's 14th loss of the last 16.

Don Sutton blanked the Reds on two hits and Tommy Davis drove in both Dodger runs with a first inning single that extended his hitting streak to 11 straight games. It was Sutton's 10th victory, the most any rookie pitcher has had for the Dodgers since the club moved to Los Angeles in 1958.

Chualo Scores 7th Round Kayo

MONTREAL (AP) — George Chualo, Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto, scored a seventh-round knockout over Mel Turnbow of Paterson, N.Y., in a scheduled 10-round non-title boxing match here Tuesday night.

Chualo, who weighed in at 220, caught his opponent with a left-right combination and sent Turnbow sprawling across the mat at 2:55 of the seventh. Turnbow weighed 240.

An estimated 3,100 fans cheered Chualo on, as he freely punched at Turnbow before decking him for the count of nine in the seventh.

Willie's Worries Will Evaporate After That 535th

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

Willie Mays needs only one more long blow to become baseball's all-time best right-handed home run hitter, and when he does it a lot of worries also will leave the park.

He cracked his 534th in San Francisco's 3-1 victory over St. Louis Tuesday night, tying Jimmy Foxx as the second best home run hitter of all time.

Only left-handed Babe Ruth has more — 714 — and Mays, 35, figures that record is safe and is not worrying about it.

"There was more pressure over the National League record," Mays said. "I hit the 511th in Houston just before coming home and then I didn't hit the 512th until more than a week later (nine days). The old mark of 511 was broken May 4. 'This time I didn't have time to think about it.'"

Mays hit No. 532 last Friday, was blanked Saturday, hit No. 533 Sunday, sat through an open day Monday and then connected in the third inning off left-hander Al Jackson of the St. Louis Cards with the bases empty.

The ball cleared the right-centerfield fence to the left of a 375-foot sign. Right fielder Mike Shannon made a futile leap for the ball, but it landed in the bare hands of bleacher fan Henry Barez, 18, of nearby Belmont.

Barez got $25 and three autographed baseballs for the catch. The crowd of 24,178 gave Mays a one-minute standing ovation, but he stayed in the dugout.

"I hit a low fast ball that was tailing away," Mays said, and Jackson agreed.

"It was a good pitch," Jackson said. "I don't think he was guessing. You don't have to guess to hit a home run. I struck him out later on a fast ball."

Two Veterans Cut By Buffalo Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran tight end Ernie Warlick and halfback Bobby Smith were among eight players cut by the Buffalo Bills Tuesday.

Warlick joined the Bills in 1962 after playing out his option with Calgary in the Canadian league. He was among the Bills' leading pass-receivers in their first two seasons.

Other veterans released were defensive end Leroy Moore, picked up on waivers from Denver in May, and flanker Jim Evans, claimed from New York this year.

Rookies included in the cut were Tony King, a defensive back, Tony Fire, a defensive tackle, Charlie Turner, a guard, and Doug Goodwin, a fullback. The releases left the American Football League champions two under the required league limit of 50.

Long Shot Wins Featured Fourth

MONTICELLO — The world couldn't exist without rain but if you ask any horseman, they'll tell you they'd be much happier if it rained anywhere else but where their horses are competing. Nothing is more messy and unpleasant to a horseman than mud, which, naturally is created by rain.

It rained all over Monticello Raceway Tuesday afternoon and well into the evening. The Mighty M strip was, as you'd expect, turned into a sea of go and so was the form for the featured fourth race.

Mud has a funny way of becoming the vehicle for longshots. Last night at the Mighty M was no exception.

The crowd backed the Clint Hodgins stable entry of Magpie Hanover and Freight Bird to a fare-thee-well. The former filly was the one the crowd was most interested in and as the field left the gate, the odds-board showed the entry as the even money favorite.

So, it only remained, as is often the case with off tracks, for a 10-1 shot to upset the favorite. And, as is often the case, the favorite finished in the runner-up slot.

Long Shot Wins
The longie in this case was Green River Stock Farm's Green River Mel and a relative unknown, Bob Worlds, was the driver. The entry finished second and fourth with Magpie Hanover a mud-splattered length off the winner.

Worlds left in a hurry with his daughter of Adios Scot. Ermine Hanover but gave way to Cathy Barmin and driver Bill Vaughan. At the three-quarters, Worlds moved out easily and went by the leader and then had enough to hold off the closing bid of Magpie Hanover and Hodgins. The time was a respectable 2:07.4.

In posting her third win in seven starts, Green River Mel returned $224.00, 5.40 and 2.60 across the board.

The 6 and 7 daily double, also outsiders in the wagering, paid $124.60. Winning horses were Kon Tiki Boy in the first and Ble Rhythm in the second.

The evening's twin double returned $969.40. Winning combination was 1-4-1-6 and there were 18 live tickets.

The Perfecta paid $38.80. Winning combination was 3-1. A crowd of 3,415 was on hand to wager $218,536.

Southside Men Beat Michael's At Cantine, 6-5

Neither rain, nor fog, nor cold of night could stop the Sauersties Softball League from playing its scheduled games. In a real thriller, Southside Men's Club edged Michael's Barber Shop, 6-5, last night at Cantine Field.

Southside took an early 4-1 lead thanks to Vince Ferraro's three RBIs, but the men from Michael's refused to give up.

Boots Butkinski parked one with two on in the top of the sixth to tie it up. Bill McCormick's single in the bottom of the sixth put the Southsiders ahead once again. Rightfielder Mike Dodig tied it up in the top of the seventh to set the stage for the dramatic finish.

By the time the bottom of the seventh rolled around the wind and rain made playing almost impossible. But such is the spirit of the Sauersties Softball League that they refused to bow to the elements. However, they did cancel the second game between Dale's and Vidi-Comm which will be played Friday at 6:30 p. m.

To make a long story short, Bob Mignano cracked a two-out broken bat single to give Southside the win.

John Freigh brought his record to 8-4 with the win. Chops Lindsay took the loss and is now 8-3.

Harrison Holds Slight Lead in Wyoming Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Wyoming Rep. William Harrison, a conservative Republican who was turned out of office in the Democratic sweep of 1964, clung to a slim lead today in his comeback bid.

A heavy crush of late ballots delayed counting in Tuesday's Wyoming primary, but Harrison, 70, held a 800-vote lead over Roy Peak, 44, a Riverton newspaper publisher, with two-thirds of the vote tallied.

Two in Commanding Leads

In other top state races, Democrats Ernest Wilkerson and Wayne Miller, two Casper attorneys, took commanding leads in their battles for the Democratic nomination for governor and congressman. Republican Stan Hathaway held only a two-vote margin in his race for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Montana also held a statewide primary Tuesday but there was only one major contest.

In that, radio station owner Richard D. Smiley of Bozeman pulled into a big lead over Butte miner Edward P. Canty, with about one-third of the votes counted in their race for the Republican nomination for Congress.

Would Face Olsen

The winner will face three-term Democrat Rep. Arnold Olsen in November. Olsen had no primary opposition.

Also nominated without opposition were Sen. Lee Metcalf, who is seeking a second term this November, and his Republican challenger, Gov. Tim Babcock.

In the state's other congressional district, Republican Rep. James F. Batti and his challenger, Democrat John D. Meleher, were nominated without opposition.

In Wyoming, Rep. Tom Rencallo was unopposed for the Democratic senatorial nomination. His opponent will be Gov. Clifford Hansen, who easily won the nomination for the U.S. Senate, outpolling L.W. Kinney by a better than 5-to-1 margin.

Hathaway, 42, a Torrington attorney, and State Rep. Joe Burke, 48, a Casper sheep rancher, were locked in the state's closest race for the Republican nomination for governor. A third candidate, Arthur Linde of Laramie, was far behind.

On the Democratic side, Wilkerson, a 45-year-old graduate of Yale, led a field of six candidates, including former acting Gov. Jack Gage and State Reps. Bill Nelson and Howard Burke. Wilkerson held a 1,000-vote lead over his nearest challenger, Casper attorney Raymond Whitaker.

Miller faced three other candidates, but only one of them, State Rep. Al Christian, provided a serious challenge. Miller led Christian by about 100 votes with less than 50 per cent of the precincts reporting.

Teeners Help . . .

tendent of the Ulster County Fair, and C. Chester DuMont, Society president.

Both men are virtually in all places in the park at once throughout the duration of the Fair, and somehow manage to take charge and smooth over even the simplest of problems.

This morning, for instance, DuMont was helping a woman push her car which had stalled on the slope near the alligator pool. He got the car out of the way, and five minutes later he was cutting the ribbon for the ceremony that opened the Fair.

Weather Outlook Good

Superintendent Bower said he had been worried earlier about the storm clouds Tuesday night which threatened to rain over Forsyth Park today. But he was reassured by the sunny skies this morning and by the Albany weather bureau which promised ideal weather the rest of the week.

A unique display at Forsyth Park this year is the crime detection and prevention tent sponsored by the Ulster County sheriff's office.

Included in this exhibit are specimens of various habit forming drugs whose use is considered grounds for criminal arrest. And at the far end of the tent are the watchful eyes of two official departmental bloodhounds.

Politicians Appear Tonight

And there will be as much excitement at the political booths tonight. Candidates for local, state and federal offices in the Republican, Democratic, Conservative and Independent parties will appear at the Fair between 7 and 9 p. m.

The fair annually attracts the attention of children, teenagers, young adults and the men and women of middle age. But the elderly are drawn to the event each year in equal numbers.

One visitor, Mrs. Josephine A. Clarence Spangenberg, said she was a barber in the Cornell Building several years ago when Roundout was in his heyday. "In all these years I've missed very few fairs," he said today, "and I'm enjoying this one as much as ever."

Horse Show Thursday

All of the booths that were set up today will be included in Thursday's horse show at the Ulster County Fair. An extra highlight tomorrow will be the annual 4-H Club Horse Show, which will start about 11 a. m. and continue until the end of the day.

Winners of the various horse, cattle, livestock and homemade articles competitions, who will be announced Thursday, may be selected to compete at the New York State Exposition Aug. 30 through Sept. 5 in Syracuse. The Exposition is the official New York State Fair.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to sink into new low ground for 1966 early this afternoon.

Trading was moderate. The market declined at the opening, firmed a bit around mid-morning and then fell back. Investors had higher interest rates to worry about in addition to their uncertainty over Viet Nam.

On a block of 16,500 shares, General Motors fell 3/4 to 75, a new 1966 low, but later shaved its loss to a half a point.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was down 7 to 195.5 with industrials off 9, rails off 3 and utilities off 3. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon had declined 3.29 to 820.54.

Changes of most key issues were fractional with some of the volatile issues showing losses of a few points.

Xerox slumped 5 points and Polaroid fell more than 3. Good-year dropped about 2 points.

UAW Asks . . .

the union on its "yes or no" demand for reopening.

If the automakers are under pressure, so is the union's hierarchy. Discontent among the UAW's 200,000 skilled members across the country has been growing in recent weeks. Terms of the proposed airlines strike settlement have increased it.

Only last Sunday 300 skilled workers from 11 Detroit UAW local met and sent a telegram to Reuther, asking him to call a 24-hour holiday for skilled tradesmen.

The purpose, they said, would be to hold a conference to discuss what they termed "the skilled trades problem." Reuther took no immediate action on the proposal.

They also called for those not working today to participate in a demonstration at the GM headquarters building.

While saying that reopening would be "inadvisable," Ford said on July 25, "I am not taking a position of no reopening as such."

He added, however: "There is a contract and I think they ought to live up to it."

Ford pointed out that current contracts carry forward the so-called annual improvement factor clause under which wages automatically are increased each year.

'Pretty Good Increase'

On Sept. 5, he said, every body, including the skilled trades, gets a 2.8 per cent increase, plus two cents an hour bonus added for the last year of the current contract.

"We consider this," he said, "to be a pretty good increase. If we want to go back to the last contract the improvement factor has given skilled tradesmen a 1 1/2-cent increase since that time."

"This includes the one they will get in September, which will be 1 1/2 cents an hour. Cost of living adjustments have come to 11 cents, so the cumulative total of this whole thing is 3 1/2 cents an hour since the signing of the last contract."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures the average straight-time wage, including the cost of the skilled and unskilled, in the auto industry as a whole is $3.22 hourly.

The 1964 contracts expire Sept. 6, 1967.

Mac Injures Ankle

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — An injured ankle has interfered, at least temporarily, with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plans to climb 14,100-foot Mt. Rainier.

Dr. Robert Livingston, a neurologist from the University of California at San Diego, treated McNamara's ankle Tuesday at Camp Sherman, near Mt. Jefferson, and then the secretary and his party went back into the Oregon wilderness to set up camp.

Banks Urged . . .

raised last December from 4 per cent to 4.5 per cent. This is the rate charged banks for funds they borrow from the Federal Reserve System.

Sen. Vance Harke, D-Ind., charged in a statement that the prime rate increase "is directly due to the Federal Reserve's refusal to supply needed funds to the market."

Federal Reserve Policies

under the guise of fighting inflation are threatening to bring on a recession — the first wartime recession in our history, Harke said.

The Federal Reserve Board declined comment on the increase.

Bausch & Lomb Dividend

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Directors of Bausch & Lomb declared a regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share on common stock Tuesday, payable Oct. 1 to shareholders of record Sept. 9.

They also voted a regular quarterly dividend of 11 per cent on the four per cent cumulative preferred stock.

Katzenbach Says City Riots Not Communist Lead

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said today riots in America's cities are produced by the despair of ghetto life — not by "Communists or black nationalists or terrorists."

Katzenbach told a Senate hearing on the explosive problems of the cities that the Justice Department has carefully investigated the causes of urban riots.

"We conclude that they were indeed fomented by agitators — agitators named disease and despair, joblessness and hopelessness, rat-infested housing and long-impacted cynicism," Katzenbach said.

"These sources of agitation are not the product of Communists, black Nationalists, or terrorists," he said. "They are the product of generations of indifference by all the American people to the rot and rust and mould which we have allowed to each into the core of our cities."

Katzenbach said eruptions of frustration among Negroes have led to demonstrations, riots and violence, while frustration among whites has prompted "equally ugly counter demonstrations and violence."

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., presiding at the hearing, said troubles in the ghetto are not just civil rights troubles. And he said it would be an illusion to think that city problems could be solved by new laws in that field.

Capture Another Suspect in Death Of 3 at London

LONDON (AP) — John Duddy, 37, tattooed Scotsman wanted in the killings of three London detectives, was captured today.

The arrested left only one of the three hunted men still at large. He is Harry Maurice Roberts, 30.

The slain detectives, members of the undercover squad against bigtime crime, were shot down outside the walls of London's Wormwood Scrubs Prison last Friday.

Scotland Yard had alerted the nation to help track down the wanted men but cautioned they might shoot on sight.

John Edward Witney, 36, has been arraigned in connection with the killings. He has been in custody since a few hours after the shootings.

Duddy was seized in a police raid on a house in Glasgow, Scotland.

A spokesman for Glasgow police said Duddy offered no resistance.

It was the first time in many years that paper ballots were used in a local election in the school district and the count took more than two hours before the results were announced.

Rainfall Totals 23 Inch Here

Rainfall in the area of Cooper Lake, the city's main reservoir, has reached only 1.17 inches, to date in the month.

Reservoir storage was reported at 84 per cent of capacity on Monday, about the same as a year ago. Rainfall in August and September last year was above average, after earlier months of lower precipitation.

The rain which began Tuesday fell 23 of an inch in the area. Cooper Lake was reported at 4.60 feet below spillway level as of Monday. It was some seven feet down on that date in the dry year of 1964 with storage at about 75 per cent of capacity.

Camp Smith Will Host 900 Army 2-Week Trainees

A most unusual combined operation involving the Active Army, National Guard and U.S. Army Reserve, will be conducted at Camp Smith, Peekskill, Saturday to Sept. 3. This is the first time in New York that these three major components of the U.S. Army have joined facilities and personnel for training troops in a reserve status, when some 900 Reserve Enlisted Program trainees of the New York National Guard will converge on Camp Smith for their basic training.

Major General A. C. O'Hara, chief of staff, Gersonom Rockwell, commanding general of the New York Army National Guard, said problems created by the shortage of spaces at Army Training Centers, because of heavy draft quotas, has made the joint venture necessary.

The general said that under the Reserve Enlistment Program of 1963, Guardsmen must be sent to Army camps such as Fort Dix, N. J., for from four to six months of active duty under Regular Army auspices. They then return home to their own units, drilling evenings or weekends, without interference to their regular jobs, school or business.

Many Guardsmen, because of the draft quotas, have been forced to forego their regular active duty training and have had to train at home armories.

Although the program has been in operation since 1963, it is a new initiative for the Reserve Enlistment Program, which is a new initiative for the Reserve Enlistment Program, which is a new initiative for the Reserve Enlistment Program.

Declare Ulster,

land is insufficient to provide necessary feed for dairy animals and other livestock.

The idle grazing land is held under terms of a federal bank and feed-grain program for the purpose of land-stabilization and conservation.

To Interpret Storage

William H. Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent, Extension Service Agricultural Department, said today that although the program has been approved on a state level, it has been held up on a federal level until further interpretation is made on the percentage of feed stored in barns in the area.

Palmer noted that the original report listed the percentage of feed in barns at 82 per cent of the normal hay supply for the year, but he explained that rating was determined to include the drought years. Palmer said that the new interpretation will take in the years dating back to 1959 through this year.

The agriculture agent contends that the new percentage undoubtedly will be much lower as it will give a fairer, more up-to-date picture of the current situation regarding feed on hand.

It will be up to the federal agency to determine after further study, whether the feed storage percentage is sufficiently low enough to receive disaster assistance at this time.
